NEW QUESTION # 34
Cloud Kicks wants to prevent its sales agents from being able to save a new account unless they have entered the phone number in the correct format and with the correct number of digits. A validation rule would then prevent the new account from saving.
Which method should be used to improve the user experience in the simplest way while preventing errors?

- A. Mark the field as Required.
- B. Set a prompt to display on the page using In-App Guidance.
- C. Set field-level error message to display on the page.

Answer: C

Explanation:
A field-level error message is a message that appears next to a specific field when the user enters invalid data or omits required data. It helps the user to correct the error and proceed with the action. A field-level error message is more user-friendly than a validation rule, which displays a generic message at the top of the page and prevents the user from saving the record. A field-level error message can also provide guidance on the correct format and number of digits for the phone number field. Marking the field as required would not ensure that the user enters the phone number in the correct format and with the correct number of digits. Setting a prompt to display on the page using In-App Guidance would not prevent the user from entering invalid data or omitting required data.[Field-Level Error Messages], [Validation Rules], [In-App Guidance]

The utility bar is a fixed footer that gives users quick access to productivity tools, such as notes, history, and recent items. It can be customized for each Lightning app to enhance the user experience and efficiency. Some of the standard use cases for using the utility bar are:
Perform common tasks without navigating away from the page: Users can use the utility bar to perform tasks such as creating notes, logging calls, or sending emails without leaving their current context. This reduces the need for switching tabs or opening new windows, and saves time and clicks.
Access to view a list of records favorited for quick access: Users can use the utility bar to access their favorites, which are records, lists, groups, or other items that they have marked with a star icon for easy access. This allows users to quickly navigate to the items they use most frequently, and organize them in a personalized way.
Access at any time to a customized set of items specific to an app: Users can use the utility bar to access items that are relevant and useful for the app they are using. For example, in the Sales app, users can access the Lightning Dialer, the Assistant, or the Today's Events utility. In the Service app, users can access the Omni-Channel, the Macros, or the Case Timer utility.
