CompTIA Advanced Security Practitioner (CASP+) Exam Sample Questions (Q196-Q201):

NEW QUESTION # 196

A company is migrating from company-owned phones to a BYOD strategy for mobile devices. The pilot program will start with the executive management team and be rolled out to the rest of the staff in phases. The company's Chief Financial Officer loses a phone multiple times a year.

Which of the following will MOST likely secure the data on the lost device?

- A. Require a VPN to be active to access company data.
- B. Remotely wipe the device.
- C. Set up different profiles based on the person's risk.
- D. Require MFA to access company applications.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Remotely wiping the device is the best way to secure the data on the lost device, as it would erase all the data and prevent unauthorized access. Requiring a VPN to be active to access company data may not protect the data on the device itself, as it could be stored locally or cached. Setting up different profiles based on the person's risk may not prevent data loss or theft, as it depends on the level of access and encryption. Requiring MFA to access company applications may not protect the data on the device itself, as it could be stored locally or cached. Verified References: <https://www.comptia.org/blog/what-is-byod>

NEW QUESTION # 197

Which of the following BEST describe the importance of maintaining chain of custody in forensic evidence collection? (Choose two.)

- A. It ensures the integrity of the collected evidence.
- B. It increases the likelihood that evidence will be deemed admissible in court.
- C. It provides automated attestation for the integrity of the collected evidence.
- D. It attests to how recently evidence was collected by recording date/time attributes.
- E. It ensures confidentiality and the need-to-know basis of forensically acquired evidence.
- F. It authenticates personnel who come in contact with evidence after collection.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

Forensic evidence is most useful when it's complete and verifiably authentic. You can achieve the first with an expansive collection approach, even if you must pare it down later. The second requires a chain of custody documenting where the evidence was discovered, who collected it, how it was collected, and every person who handled it from then until its presentation in court. The chain of custody exists to ensure the evidence was collected legally and was not subsequently altered.

NEW QUESTION # 198

Device event logs sources from MDM software as follows:

□ Which of the following security concerns and response actions would BEST address the risks posed by the device in the logs?

- A. Resource leak; recover the device for analysis and clean up the local storage.
- B. Impossible travel; disable the device's account and access while investigating.
- C. Malicious installation of an application; change the MDM configuration to remove application ID 1220.
- D. Falsified status reporting; remotely wipe the device.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The device event logs show that the device was in two different locations (New York and London) within a short time span (one hour), which indicates impossible travel. This could be a sign of a compromised device or account. The best response action is to disable the device's account and access while investigating the incident. Malicious installation of an application is not evident from the logs, nor is resource leak or falsified status reporting. ### NEW QUESTION # 199

A systems administrator was given the following IOC to detect the presence of a malicious piece of software communicating with its command-and-control server:

post /malicious. php
User-Agent: Malicious Tool V 1.0
Host: www.realicious.com

The IOC documentation suggests the URL is the only part that could change. Which of the following regular expressions would allow the systems administrator to determine if any of the company hosts are compromised, while reducing false positives?

- A. Host: [a-z]*\.malicious\.com
- B. www. malicious\. com/malicious. php
- C. POST /malicious\. php
- D. malicious. *
- E. User-Agent: Malicious Tool. *

Answer: A

Explanation:

In this case, the systems administrator should use the regex Host: [a-z]*.malicious.com to determine if any of the company hosts are compromised, while reducing false positives, because this regex would:

Match the Host header in the HTTP request, which specifies the domain name of the command-and-control server.

Allow any subdomain under the malicious.com domain, by using the character class [a-z]*, which matches zero or more lowercase letters.

Escape the dot character in the domain name, by using the backslash , which prevents it from being interpreted as a wildcard that matches any character.

Not match any other parts of the IOC that could change, such as the URL path, the User-Agent header, or the HTTP method.

NEW QUESTION # 200

Following a recent security incident on a web server the security analyst takes HTTP traffic captures for further investigation.

The analyst suspects certain jpg files have important data hidden within them

Which of the following tools will help get all the pictures from within the HTTP traffic captured to a specified folder?

- A. dd
- B. memdump
- C. nbtstat
- D. tshark

Answer: D
