ASET Ethics Examination-ASET Professional Practice Exam (PPE) Sample Questions (Q110-Q115):

NEW QUESTION # 110

Which of the following statements best describes what access members of the public have to hearings before the ASET Discipline Committee or ASET Appeal Board?

- A. Hearings are open to the public unless the Committee or Board orders otherwise.
- B. Hearings may be open or closed to the public, depending on the nature of the hearing.
- C. Hearings are closed to the public.
- D. Hearings are open to the public.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Self-regulating professions operate under a social contract where the government grants them the privilege to govern themselves in exchange for prioritizing public protection. A key tenet of this system is transparency. Therefore, under the Engineering and Geoscience Professions Act (EGPA), disciplinary hearings conducted by the ASET Discipline Committee or Appeal Board are, by default, open to the public. This ensures that the public can witness that the profession is holding its members accountable and administering justice fairly. However, this is not an absolute rule. The Committee or Board possesses the legal authority to order a hearing (or portions of it) closed to the public if doing so is necessary to protect highly sensitive information. This exception is typically invoked to protect the identity of a victim of harassment, to protect highly confidential medical records, or to prevent the disclosure of proprietary corporate trade secrets that might be discussed as evidence during the hearing.

NEW QUESTION # 111

Which of the following is the first phase of an environmental site assessment?

- A. Examining the most probable locations of contamination by conducting tests
- B. Providing a detailed description of the contaminants
- C. Recommending a remediation process
- D. Gathering information about the property from all of the parties involved

Answer: D

Explanation:

In environmental engineering and technology, an Environmental Site Assessment (ESA) is conducted in strict, standardized phases to manage risk and costs effectively. A Phase 1 ESA is explicitly a non-intrusive, preliminary investigation. Its sole purpose is to determine the likelihood that environmental contamination exists on a property. The correct action during this first phase is gathering information about the property. This involves conducting historical research (reviewing old maps, land titles, and aerial photographs), conducting site walk-throughs to look for visual evidence (like stained soil or abandoned barrels), and interviewing past and present owners or neighbors. Phase 1 does not involve physically testing the soil or water (Option D); physical sampling and detailed descriptions of contaminants happen in a Phase 2 ESA. Recommending and executing a cleanup or remediation process (Option A) is the function of a Phase 3 ESA.

NEW QUESTION # 112

A regulated member of ASET receives a phone call from a client requesting information about one of the member's other clients. Which of the following actions should the member take?

- A. Share only limited information between clients.
- B. Do not under any circumstances share the information.
- C. Request permission from the other client to share information.
- D. Freely provide information between clients.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Confidentiality is a cornerstone of professional ethics. The ASET Code of Ethics explicitly requires members to act with integrity and maintain confidentiality regarding the business affairs, technical processes, and personal data of their clients and employers. Information gathered during a professional relationship legally and ethically belongs to the client, not the technologist. Therefore, a professional cannot freely or even partially share one client's information with another, even if the clients are in the same industry or the member believes the information is harmless. However, saying "do not under any circumstances share" is technically incorrect, as confidentiality can be waived by the owner of the information. The correct and ethical procedure, if a member believes sharing the information could be mutually beneficial or is necessary, is to explicitly request permission (informed consent) from the client whose information is being sought. Only after receiving clear, preferably written, authorization from the original client can the member legally and ethically share that specific information.

NEW QUESTION # 113

In which of the following situations does the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA) allow the disclosure of personal information collected under the Act?

- A. When a supervisor wishes to find out an employee's birthdate

- B. When an occupational health and safety investigator requests personal information in a workplace investigation
- C. When there is a national security issue in the country
- D. When a new employee completes their hiring package with personal information

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act (PIPEDA) is the federal privacy law that sets strict rules for how private-sector organizations collect, use, and disclose personal information. The foundational rule of PIPEDA is that an organization must obtain an individual's explicit, informed consent before disclosing their personal information to a third party. However, PIPEDA contains a specific set of legal exemptions where information can be disclosed without consent.

These exemptions are strictly limited to matters of significant public interest or legal mandate. One of the primary exceptions is disclosure required for matters of national security, the defense of Canada, or the conduct of international affairs, typically involving federal intelligence or law enforcement agencies (like CSIS or the RCMP). Disclosing information simply because a supervisor is curious (Option B) is a severe privacy violation. Therefore, national security is the correct exemption that overrides standard consent requirements.

NEW QUESTION # 114

Which of the following must a regulated member do as part of continuing professional development?

- A. Only attend ASET-sanctioned events.
- B. Develop and maintain written records.
- C. Record professional activities only when challenged.
- D. Report all professional activities.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The ASET Continuing Professional Development (CPD) program is a mandatory requirement designed to ensure that regulated members continuously update their skills and knowledge to protect the public.

While members are required to log their CPD activities annually, a fundamental administrative requirement of the program is that members must actively develop and maintain written records (or digital logs) of their CPD activities, along with supporting documentation such as certificates of completion, receipts, or course outlines. Members are not required to report "all" professional daily activities, only those that qualify for CPD credits. Furthermore, CPD is highly flexible; members are not restricted to only attending ASET-sanctioned events and can engage in self-directed learning, mentoring, or external courses. Because ASET conducts random, mandatory audits of its members' CPD logs every year, relying on memory or only recording activities when challenged is a violation of practice standards. Maintaining accurate, verifiable written records ensures that if a member is audited, they can immediately prove their compliance with the profession's competency requirements.
