1.A Security Operator is troubleshooting a new vCenter Cloud Account connection. The connection validation fails immediately.
The operator reviews the error details in the Provider Portal:
Error Message
"The connection to the endpoint 'vcsa-01.corp.local' failed.
Reason: sun.security.validator.ValidatorException: PKIX path building failed:
unable to find valid certification path to requested target."
What is the root cause of this error?
A. The firewall is blocking port 443.
B. The credentials used for the vCenter account are incorrect.
C. The vCenter Server provided a certificate, but VCF Automation does not trust the Certificate Authority (CA) that signed it.
D. The vCenter Server is down.
Answer: C

2.An Automation Developer is troubleshooting a validation error in a Cloud Template. The goal is to set the memory of a machine to 4GB. The validation fails with a syntax error.
Review the following YAML snippet from the blueprint:
Blueprint YAML
resources:
 WebVM:
 type: Cloud.Machine
 properties:
 image: ubuntu
 flavor: medium memory: 4096 MB
 networks:
 - name: default
What is the cause of the validation error in this configuration?
A. The image property must be a URL.
B. The networks list is empty.
C. The flavor property is missing.
D. The memory property is not a valid property for Cloud.Machine when a flavor is already specified.
Answer: D

3.A Service Designer needs to create a multi-level approval workflow for a sensitive "Database-as-a-Service" catalog item.
Requirements
1. Level 1: The requester's immediate manager must approve the cost.
2. Level 2: After the manager approves, the Security Team must approve the network placement.
3. If Level 1 is rejected, the request must stop immediately.
Which approach correctly configures this sequential approval logic within Service Broker? (Choose 2.)
A. Create a single Approval Policy with two separate items in the "Approvers" list, relying on the default "Any" logic.

VMware Advanced VMware Cloud Foundation 9.0 Automation Sample Questions (Q35-Q40):

NEW QUESTION # 35

In VCF Automation AllApps architecture, which component directly connects external infrastructure such as vCenter or Supervisor clusters into the organization?

- A. Cloud Zone
- B. Cloud Account
- C. Project
- D. Region

Answer: B

Explanation:

Cloud Account is responsible for onboarding external infrastructure such as vCenter, NSX, and Supervisor clusters. It acts as the integration point. Cloud Zones consume these accounts to provide capacity. Projects consume Cloud Zones. The trick is that Cloud Account does not provide resources directly; it only integrates them.

NEW QUESTION # 36

What are two prerequisites to enable provisioning VMs via kubectl against tenant resources? (Choose two.)

- A. Create a context via kubectl.
- B. Create a context via VCF CLI.
- C. Generate an API token from the VCF Automation UI.
- D. Create a new extensibility Action.
- E. Ask the Provider to generate a token via the system APIs.

Answer: B,C

NEW QUESTION # 37

A customer has a requirement to register a resource with an external service during provisioning in a VMAps Organization. The requirements are:

- * the registration cannot cause provisioning to fail.
- * the registration or failure will only be logged in the external service.

What two constructs satisfy the requirements? (Choose two.)

- A. ABX action.
- B. Bash script on the template.
- C. Cloud-init stanza in the blueprint.
- D. Blocking event broker subscription.
- E. Non-blocking event broker subscription.

Answer: A,E

Explanation:

To satisfy the requirement that a registration task must not impact the success of the overall deployment, a Non-blocking event broker subscription must be used. In VCF Automation 9.0, a "Blocking" subscription pauses the provisioning process until the extensibility task completes, allowing the workflow to fail the deployment if the task returns an error. Conversely, a "Non-blocking" subscription operates asynchronously; the platform fires the event and immediately continues with the VM lifecycle regardless of the task's outcome. An Action-Based Extensibility (ABX) action is the ideal lightweight serverless function to execute this registration logic, as it can be easily configured to run in response to the event trigger without the overhead of a full orchestrator workflow. By combining these two, the administrator ensures that the external registration is attempted, and any successes or failures are handled purely within the context of that action and the external service, fulfilling the customer's logging and failure-tolerance requirements.

NEW QUESTION # 38

Which statement correctly describes the relationship between a Project and an Organization in VCF 9.0?

- A. A Project is a sub-construct of an Organization used to group users and entitle them to specific resources.
- B. Projects are managed in SDDC Manager, while Organizations are managed in the vSphere Client.
- C. There is no relationship; they are independent management silos.
- D. An Organization can belong to multiple Projects to share resources.

Answer: A

Explanation:

In the VCF 9.0 governance hierarchy, the Organization acts as the top-level administrative and billing boundary, while the Project serves as the granular operational unit. Every Project must reside within a single Organization. The Project is the primary mechanism for Role-Based Access Control (RBAC) and resource entitlement. Within a Project, the administrator maps Cloud Zones or Namespace Classes to specific sets of users and groups. This allows a large organization (e.g., "Engineering") to have multiple projects (e.g., "Project Alpha" and "Project Beta") with different resource limits and user permissions, all while sharing the same underlying organizational settings, identity providers, and regional infrastructure. Projects also allow for the isolation of Cloud Templates (blueprints); a template created in Project Alpha is not visible or deployable by users in Project Beta unless it is explicitly shared through the Service Broker catalog.

NEW QUESTION # 39

An administrator must initiate the deployment of a new 3-tier application architecture using the VMware Cloud Foundation (VCF) Automation portal. This application includes:

- * A web tier (stateless).

- * A business logic tier (some local caching).
 - * A database tier (stateful, PostgreSQL).
 - * An NSX load balancer fronting the web tier.
 - * ~99.9% uptime requirement.
 - * Moderate performance requirements.
- Which requirement represents a risk inherent to single-zone deployments?

- A. A higher latency between application tiers.
- B. A higher network complexity.
- C. A split-brain isolation.
- D. A shared failure domain for all application tiers.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The primary architectural risk in any single-zone deployment within VCF 9.0 is the existence of a shared failure domain. In a single-zone Supervisor cluster or workload domain, all components—including the web, application, and database tiers—reside within the same logical and often physical infrastructure boundary (such as a single rack or data center room). If the underlying zone experiences a critical failure, such as a localized power outage, cooling failure, or a total top-of-rack switch collapse, the entire 3-tier application stack will go offline simultaneously. For mission-critical applications requiring high availability, VCF 9.0 recommends a multi-zone or stretched cluster architecture. In such designs, the failure of one zone does not compromise the entire application because the tiers can be distributed across different fault domains, ensuring that the stateless web tier and stateful database remain operational elsewhere. In the context of the 99.9% uptime requirement mentioned, a single-zone design represents a significant risk because it lacks the redundancy needed to survive zone-level disruptions.
