NEW QUESTION # 72
As a developer, you are designing a workflow and need to communicate with the runner machine to set environment variables, output values used by other actions, add debug messages to the output logs, and other tasks. Which of the following options should you use?

- A. environment variables
- B. workflow commands
- C. enable debug logging
- D. self-hosted runners

Answer: B

Explanation:
E composite run step
Explanation:
Workflow commands are special commands that allow you to interact with the runner, set environment variables, output values, add debug messages, and perform other tasks within the workflow. These commands are used to modify the environment or influence the behavior of the GitHub Actions runner.

NEW QUESTION # 73

Which default environment variable specifies the branch or tag that triggered a workflow?

- A. GITHUB_REF
- B. GITHUB_BRANCH
- C. ENV_BRANCH
- D. GITHUB_TAG

Answer: A

Explanation:
The GITHUB_REF environment variable specifies the branch or tag that triggered the workflow. It contains the full reference to the branch or tag, such as refs/heads/main for a branch or refs/tags/v1.0 for a tag.

NEW QUESTION # 74

Without the need to use additional infrastructure, what is the simplest and most maintainable method for configuring a workflow job to provide access to an empty PostgreSQL database?

- A. It is currently impossible to access the database with GitHub Actions.
- B. Dynamically provision and deprovision an environment.
- C. Run the actions/postgres action in a parallel job.
- D. Use service containers with a Postgres database from Docker hub.

Answer: D

Explanation:
GitHub Actions supports the use of service containers, which allows you to spin up a PostgreSQL database (or any other service) in a Docker container during your workflow. You can pull a PostgreSQL image from Docker Hub, and the container will automatically be available to your workflow job. This method requires no additional infrastructure and is easy to configure and maintain, as you simply define the container in the workflow file.

NEW QUESTION # 75

Which workflow commands send information from the runner? (Choose two.)

- A. setting output parameters
- B. populating variables in a Dockerfile
- C. setting a debug message
- D. reading from environment variables

Answer: A,C

Explanation:
Setting a debug message using ::debug:: command sends a message to the logs, helping with troubleshooting and providing insight into the workflow run.
Setting output parameters using ::set-output sends data from a job step to subsequent steps or jobs, which can be used later in the workflow.

NEW QUESTION # 76

As a DevOps engineer, you are developing a container action. You need to execute a cleanup script after completing the main script execution. Which code block should be used to define the cleanup script?

- A. ☐
- B. ☐

- C. ☐
- D. ☐

Answer: B

Explanation:
The correct syntax for specifying a cleanup script to be run after the main entry point is executed in a Docker-based GitHub Action is to use the post key. This ensures that cleanup.sh runs after the main script (main.sh) has completed.
