NEW QUESTION # 128
A developer needs to prevent the creation of Request__c records when certain coVraitions exist in the system.
A RequeatLogic class exists that checks the conditions.
What is the correct implementation?

- A. Option C
- B. Option B
- C. Option A
- D. Option D

Answer: D

Explanation:
The correct implementation is option D, where the trigger is set to execute before the insertion of a Request__c record. It calls the validateRecords method from the RequestLogic class to check if certain conditions are met before allowing the creation of a new record. This ensures that validation occurs prior to record insertion, preventing the creation of records that do not meet specified conditions. References: The explanation can be inferred from knowledge on triggers and their execution context as per Salesforce developer documentation and learning materials available on
