USAII Certified Artificial Intelligence Consultant Sample Questions (Q62-Q67):

NEW QUESTION # 62

Choose the CORRECT example of Supervised Learning.

- A. Driverless car
- B. None of the above
- C. All of the above
- D. ChatGPT
- E. House price prediction

Answer: E

Explanation:

The correct answer is B. House price prediction . Supervised learning is a machine learning approach where a model is trained using labeled data. In a house price prediction problem, the training data usually contains property features such as size, location, number of rooms, age of the house, and past selling prices. The known selling price acts as the label or target value. The model learns the relationship between the input features and the price, then predicts prices for new houses.

A driverless car is not the best single example because autonomous driving uses a combination of AI techniques, including supervised learning, reinforcement learning, computer vision, sensor fusion, planning, and control systems. ChatGPT is a generative AI language model and is not typically used as the basic example of supervised learning in this context. Since house price prediction directly represents supervised learning with labeled input-output data, the correct answer is B .

NEW QUESTION # 63

Which of the following is NOT a pillar of the GenAI Well-Architected Framework?

- A. Security & Privacy
- B. Reliability
- C. None of the above
- D. Operational Excellence
- E. System Architecture Excellence

Answer: E

Explanation:

The correct answer is D. System Architecture Excellence because it is not normally identified as a standard pillar of a GenAI Well-Architected Framework. Well-architected AI and GenAI frameworks commonly focus on structured pillars such as operational excellence, security and privacy, reliability, performance, cost optimization, responsible AI, and governance-related practices. These pillars help organizations design GenAI solutions that are secure, scalable, reliable, maintainable, and aligned with business and ethical expectations.

Operational excellence is a valid pillar because GenAI systems require proper deployment processes, observability, automation, monitoring, incident response, and lifecycle management. Security and privacy are also essential because GenAI applications often process sensitive data, prompts, outputs, embeddings, and model interactions. Reliability is another valid pillar because GenAI solutions must handle failures, latency, model availability, fallback mechanisms, and consistent service delivery.

"System Architecture Excellence" sounds related to solution design, but it is not a recognized pillar name in the listed framework. Therefore, the option that is NOT a pillar is D .

NEW QUESTION # 64

Choose the CORRECT benefits a business can get through segmentation.

- A. Segmentation can help to apply right pricing options to the right clients.
- B. Segmentation can help providing better client service.
- C. a and b only
- D. Segmentation can create a targeted marketing communication.
- E. a, b and c only

Answer: E

Explanation:

The correct answer is E. a, b and c only because all three statements describe valid business benefits of segmentation. Segmentation means dividing customers, markets, products, or users into meaningful groups based on shared characteristics, behaviors, needs, value, preferences, or risk profiles. In AI and analytics, segmentation helps organizations understand different customer groups more clearly and make better business decisions.

Statement A is correct because segmentation allows businesses to create targeted marketing communication.

Instead of sending the same message to everyone, companies can design messages that match each segment's interests, needs, and buying behavior. Statement B is also correct because segmentation can support pricing strategies by helping businesses offer the right pricing, discounts, bundles, or value propositions to the right customer groups. Statement C is correct because segmentation improves client service by helping teams understand customer expectations and deliver more relevant support, recommendations, and experiences.

Therefore, all listed benefits are correct, making E the best answer.

NEW QUESTION # 65

Which is the first useful computer program that came into existence in the AI world?

- A. GPS
- B. EPS
- C. LPS
- D. AIS
- E. MLS

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is B. GPS . In artificial intelligence history, GPS stands for General Problem Solver . It was an early AI program developed to simulate human problem-solving behavior. GPS was designed to solve problems by breaking them down into goals, subgoals, operators, and differences between the current state and the desired state. This approach became important because it introduced structured reasoning and symbolic problem solving, which were central ideas in early AI research.

LPS, MLS, AIS, and EPS are not the standard answer for the first useful computer program in the AI world in this context. GPS is widely recognized as one of the earliest useful AI programs because it attempted to model general reasoning rather than solving only one narrow calculation task. It showed how computers could be programmed to search through possible actions and work toward a goal. Therefore, the correct answer is B.

GPS .

NEW QUESTION # 66

Which one of the following should NOT be used while designing the prompt?

- A. Open-ended questions
- B. Lack of constraints
- C. a and b only
- D. All of the above
- E. Information overload

Answer: D

Explanation:

The correct answer is E. All of the above because effective prompt design requires clarity, focus, structure, and useful constraints. Information overload should not be used because giving too much unnecessary detail can confuse the model, weaken the main instruction, and reduce the quality of the response. A prompt should include relevant context, but it should avoid excessive or unrelated information.

Open-ended questions should also be avoided when the goal is a specific, controlled, or business-ready answer. Broad prompts often produce vague, incomplete, or inconsistent outputs. Instead, prompts should clearly state the desired task, format, scope, and expected outcome. Lack of constraints is also a poor prompt design practice because constraints guide the model on length, tone, structure, audience, output type, and boundaries. Without constraints, the model may generate responses that are too broad, too long, or misaligned with the user's intent.

Since information overload, overly open-ended questions, and lack of constraints can all weaken prompt quality, the correct answer is E. All of the above .
