NEW QUESTION # 36

For Veeam agent backup jobs, what feature is only available with Veeam Agent for Microsoft Windows?

- A. Volume backup
- B. Application-aware processing of
- C. File-level backup
- D. Backup from storage snapshots

Answer: B

Explanation:

Application-aware processing is a feature exclusive to Veeam Agent for Microsoft Windows. It allows for the creation of consistent backups of Windows-based applications and ensures that databases and applications like Microsoft Active Directory, SQL Server, Exchange, and SharePoint are quiesced and in a consistent state when being backed up. NEW QUESTION # 37

What feature is only available with the Veeam Agent for Linux?

- A. Application-aware processing of
- C Backup from native snapshots
- B. File-level backup
- C. Volume backup

Answer: C

Explanation:

The feature that is unique to Veeam Agent for Linux and not available in other Veeam Agent configurations is C: Backup from native snapshots. Veeam Agent for Linux includes the ability to leverage native snapshot capabilities of the Linux kernel, such as LVM (Logical Volume Manager) snapshots or Btrfs subvolume snapshots, to create consistent point-in-time copies of data. This capability allows for application-consistent backups even in complex Linux environments, ensuring that data is captured in a consistent state without the need for custom scripting or downtime. Native snapshot support in Veeam Agent for Linux enhances the flexibility and reliability of backups, particularly in environments where Linux-based applications and databases are critical to business operations.
