ASIS Physical Security Professional Exam Sample Questions (Q108-Q113):

NEW QUESTION # 108

WANs also allow multiple computers to share the same communication line, as is possible with LANs.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

Wide Area Networks (WANs), like LANs, allow multiple devices to share communication lines. In WANs, technologies such as packet switching, virtual circuits, and multiplexing are used to let multiple users communicate over shared infrastructure. This is essential for scalability and efficiency across geographically dispersed locations.

NEW QUESTION # 109

When developing a request for proposal (RFP), a specification that requires bidders to satisfy overall system effectiveness measure is referred to as:

- A. Cost-based
- B. Feature-based
- C. Results-based
- D. Performance-based

Answer: D

Explanation:

A performance-based specification defines what the system must achieve (e.g., detection rate, response time), without specifying how to achieve it. This allows vendors flexibility in choosing technologies that meet required outcomes.

* B (Feature-based) and C (Results-based) are loosely defined or incorrect terms in procurement standards.

* D (Cost-based) focuses on budget, not system performance.

NEW QUESTION # 110

To protect a company and its assets, the FIRST step is to perform a/an

- A. cost-benefit analysis.
- B. threat and vulnerability analysis.
- C. operational cost analysis.
- D. business impact analysis.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The first step in protecting a company and its assets is to conduct a threat and vulnerability analysis because it identifies potential risks and weaknesses that could impact the organization. In Human Resource and organizational security management, understanding threats such as theft, insider risks, or external attacks, along with vulnerabilities like poor training, weak procedures, or lack of controls, is essential before implementing any protective measures. This analysis provides the foundation for developing effective security strategies, policies, and employee awareness programs. Without first identifying what needs protection and where weaknesses exist, other steps such as cost analysis or business impact analysis may be ineffective or misdirected. Therefore, option C is correct because it establishes the baseline for informed decision-making and effective asset protection planning.

NEW QUESTION # 111

The planning phase of a physical protection system implementation produces which two of the following very important work products?

- A. Contract information and bidder instructions
- B. Cost and equipment list
- C. Drawings and preliminary design
- D. Design requirements and sole-source justification

Answer: C

Explanation:

Comprehensive Detailed Explanation:

During the planning phase of a physical protection system, key deliverables include:

Preliminary design: Conceptual plans showing system layout and strategy.

Drawings: Visual representations that help in communicating system intent and scope.

These work products set the foundation for detailed design and implementation.

A, B, and C include elements used later in the process (procurement, budgeting).

NEW QUESTION # 112

When a bomb threat is received and identifies a specific floor as containing the bomb, the initial building evacuation should focus on the affected floor and:

- A. The floors immediately above and below
- B. All floors above
- C. The immediate area
- D. All floors below

Answer: A

Explanation:

When a bomb threat targets a specific floor, safety protocols typically mandate evacuation of the identified floor and the floors immediately above and below. This accounts for the potential blast radius and structural impact, ensuring personnel safety in adjacent vulnerable areas.

A is too vague.

C and D (all floors above or below) may be excessive unless threat specifics demand it.
