Salesforce Platform Developer II Sample Questions (Q51-Q56):

NEW QUESTION # 51

What is the correct syntax for calling a controller action from a Visualforce page and updating part of the page once the action is completed? Choose 2 answers

- A. < apex:actionSupport action="{!Save}" event="onchange" rerender="thePageBlock"/>
- B. < apex:commandFunction action="{!Save}" value="Save" rendered="thePageBlock"/>
- C. < apex:commandButton action="{!Save}" value="Save" redraw="thePageBlock"/>
- D. < apex:actionFunction action="{!Save}" name="Save" rerender="thePageBlock"/>

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 52

An Apex Trigger creates a Contract record every time an Opportunity record is marked as Closed and Won. This trigger is working great, except (due to a recent acquisition) historical Opportunity records need to be loaded into the Salesforce instance. When a test batch of records are loaded, the Apex Trigger creates Contract records. A developer is tasked with preventing Contract records from being created when mass loading the Opportunities, but the daily users still need to have the Contract records created. What is the most extendable way to update the Apex Trigger to accomplish this?

- A. add the Profile Id of the user who does the data loading to the Trigger so the Trigger won't fire for this user.
- B. Use a List Custom Setting to disable the Trigger for the user who does the data loading.
- C. Use a Hierarchy Custom Setting to disable the Trigger for the user who does the data loading.
- D. Add a Validation Rule to the Contract to prevent Contract creation by the user who does the data loading.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 53

As part of point-to-point integration, a developer must call an external web service which, due to high demand, takes a long time to provide a response. As part of the request, the developer must collect key inputs from the end user before making the callout. Which two elements should the developer use to implement these business requirements?4647

- A. Lightning web component5051
- B. Screen Flow5253
- C. Batch Apex4849
- D. Apex method that returns a Continuation object5455

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

58

This requirement addresses two distinct needs: a user interface for59 data collection and a technical solution for long-running HTTP callouts.

First, a Lightning Web Component (Option B) or a Screen Flow (Option C) could both be used to collect inputs. However, in the context of advanced development and the specific use of "Continuation," a Lightning Web Component is the standard modern pairing. It allows for a rich, interactive UI to gather the "key inputs" from the user.

Second, for the long-running callout, the developer should use an Apex method that returns a Continuation object (Option D). Standard synchronous callouts in Salesforce have a timeout limit (typically 10 seconds, max 120) and, more importantly, they "hold" a thread in the Salesforce application server. If many users perform long callouts simultaneously, the org can hit the "Concurrent Request" limit, blocking other users.

The Continuation class allows the request to be handed off to a specialized Salesforce service that waits for the response asynchronously. Once the external service responds, the Continuation service "wakes up" the Apex callback method. This pattern is essential for long-running integrations as it doesn't count against concurrent request limits while the external system is processing, providing a much more scalable user experience.

NEW QUESTION # 54

An Apex trigger creates a Contract record every time an Opportunity record is marked as Closed and Won. A developer is tasked with preventing Contract records from being created when mass loading historical Opportunities, but the daily users still need the logic to fire. What is the most extendable way to update the Apex trigger to accomplish this?

- A. Use a list custom setting to disable the trigger for the user who loads the data.
- B. Add a validation rule to the Contract to prevent creation by the data load user.
- C. Use a hierarchy custom setting to skip executing the logic inside the trigger for the user who loads the data.
- D. Add the Profile ID of the user who loads the data to the trigger.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Managing "Trigger Kill Switches" is a critical requirement for data migration. The most "extendable" and platform-standard approach is using a Hierarchy Custom Setting (Option C).

A hierarchy setting allows for different values at the Organization, Profile, and User levels. A developer can create a checkbox field called Disable_Opportunity_Trigger__c. In the trigger, the code would check: if (MySettings__c.getInstance().Disable_Opportunity_Trigger__c) return;. During a mass data load, the administrator can enable this checkbox specifically for the integration user or the specific administrator performing the load. Because it is a hierarchy, it doesn't affect standard users.

This approach is superior to hard-coding Profile IDs (Option A) because IDs change between environments. It is also better than List Custom Settings (Option D) because it provides the automatic "fallback" logic (User > Profile > Org) that makes management much simpler. Validation rules (Option B) would cause the trigger to fail with an exception, which could stop the entire data load transaction, whereas the Custom Setting approach allows the trigger to "gracefully" skip its logic and allow the Opportunity to be saved without creating a Contract.

NEW QUESTION # 55

Consider the following code snippet:

A developer created the following test class to provide the proper code coverage for the snippet above:

However, when the test runs, no data is returned and the assertion fails.

Which edit should the developer make to ensure the test class runs successfully?

- A. Enclose the method call within Test.startTest() and @Test_stopTest().
- B. Implement the without sharing keyword in the searchFeatures Apex class.
- C. Implement the setFixedSearchResults() method in the test class.
- D. Implement the seeAllData=true attribute in the @IsTest annotation.

Answer: C

Explanation:

To ensure that the test class for a search functionality in Salesforce runs successfully, the developer should use the Test.setFixedSearchResults() method. This allows the test to specify the records that are returned by the search, ensuring that the search behavior is predictable and that the assertion can be properly evaluated.
