Veeam Certified Engineer v12 Sample Questions (Q28-Q33):

NEW QUESTION # 28

A director in a business needs a folder of traffic photos restored from a Linux server. This machine sits on a VM backed up by Veeam Backup & Replication. The director wants the files restored to their original location and does not want to lose the original files. What functionality will be used to restore the folder using the Veeam Guest OS restoration wizard?

- A. Restore the files using the "Hold" function. The director can then determine the status of the original and restored files.
- B. Restore the files using the "Overwrite" function. Original files will be renamed.
- C. Restore the files using the "Keep" function. Original files will be untouched
- D. Restore the files using the "Versioning" function. Files will be prefixed with numbers (1-, 2-, 3-, etc.).

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

According to the Veeam Backup & Replication user guide¹, you can use the Guest File Restore wizard to restore files and folders from VM guest OSes that run Linux or other non-Windows OSes². The wizard allows you to choose how to handle situations when restored files already exist on the target location³.

Therefore, if you want to restore the folder of traffic photos to their original location and do not want to lose the original files, you should use the Keep function. This function will preserve original files on disk and will not overwrite them with restored files

NEW QUESTION # 29

An administrator needs to configure a backup job that dynamically adds new VMware hosted SQL servers. How can this be accomplished?

- A. Create a job based on vSphere tags.
- B. Create a dynamic backup job in Enterprise Manager.
- C. Create a CSV file that is scanned before the backup job starts.
- D. Enable application aware processing.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 30

An administrator needs to dynamically add VMware VMs that have a custom application installed to a backup job. How can this job be created?

- A. Modify a custom CSV file to be scanned before the start of each job.
- B. In Enterprise Manager, create a dynamic group of VMs that contain both tags.
- C. Create a backup job based on vSphere tags.
- D. Use the RESTful API to scan the VM inventory for machines that match the criteria.

Answer: C

Explanation:

To dynamically include VMware VMs with a custom application installed in a backup job, the most efficient approach is C: Create a backup job based on vSphere tags. VMware vSphere tagging allows administrators to assign metadata to VMs, making it easier to categorize and manage them according to various criteria, such as application type, department, or any custom criteria relevant to the organization. Veeam Backup & Replication can leverage these tags to dynamically include VMs in backup jobs. By setting up a backup job to include VMs tagged with a specific identifier related to the custom application, any VM tagged accordingly will be automatically included in the backup job. This approach simplifies management, ensures consistency, and allows for the flexible and dynamic grouping of VMs based on changing criteria without the need for manual adjustments to the backup job configuration.

NEW QUESTION # 31

A request to protect some new domain controllers has been submitted in the ticketing system. The engineer creates a backup job with the following steps:

1. Right-clicks on the Jobs navigation item on the left
2. Selects VMware vSphere from the menu
3. Enters a name for the job.
4. Selects workloads to protect.
5. Defines a job schedule.
6. Clicks the Finish button.

When testing restores, the engineer finds that the backups are crash-consistent.

Which set of steps should the engineer use to avoid crash-consistent backups for the domain controllers?

- A. Launch the New Backup Job Wizard. Enter a name and a description. Select a resource pool to protect. Specify a backup repository with copy-mode enabled. Define a job schedule. Click the Finish button.
- B. Launch the New Backup Job Wizard. Enter a name for the job. Specify a backup repository. Specify Guest Processing settings. Define a job schedule. Click the Finish button.
- C. Launch the New Backup Job Wizard. Enter a name for the job. Select workloads to protect. Choose a destination. Enable the Application-Aware checkbox and configure settings. Define a job schedule. Click the Finish button.
- D. Launch the New Backup Job Wizard. Enter a name or description for the job. Select the vSphere environment to protect. Choose the Default Backup Repository. Check the box labelled 'Run the job when I click Finish'. Specify Guest Processing settings. Define a job schedule.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Application-aware processing is a feature in Veeam Backup & Replication that creates transactionally consistent backup images of VMs. For domain controllers, this feature ensures that backups are consistent with the applications running on the VM, like Active Directory services. To avoid crash-consistent backups and ensure application consistency, the engineer must enable the Application-Aware Processing option during the job configuration.

NEW QUESTION # 32

If the deduplication setting is changed for an existing job, when will the new setting be applied?

- A. Only when you rescan the repository that stores the backup files
- B. If any kind of full backup is created
- C. At the next run of the job
- D. If a new active full backup is created

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation:

https://helpcenter.veeam.com/archive/backup/95/vsphere/compression_deduplication.html To apply new deduplication settings in backup jobs, you must create an active full backup after you change deduplication settings. Veeam Backup & Replication will use the new block size for the active full backup and subsequent backup files in the backup chain.
