NEW QUESTION # 383

Two agile teams from different company sites need to work and collaborate on the same project. What is the first action the agile project manager should take in order to ensure a smooth collaboration between the two teams?

- A. Organize onsite backlog-refinement workshops to ensure common understanding.
- B. Call an onsite meeting where ground rules will be discussed and agreed upon.
- C. Set up weekly meetings where all team members will participate.
- D. Ask the product owner to prepare an onsite team-building activity.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The correct answer is C - Call an onsite meeting where ground rules will be discussed and agreed upon.

When multiple distributed teams begin working together, the first priority is to establish common ground rules, expectations, and working agreements. This sets the foundation for effective communication and collaboration. An initial face-to-face (or virtual face-to-face) meeting is often critical for forming trust and shared norms.

PMI Agile Practice Guide:

"Teams should establish working agreements early in the project. These define expectations for communication, decision-making, and collaboration-especially critical for distributed or cross-functional teams." (PMI Agile Practice Guide, Section 4.2 - Collaboration and Communication) Mike Griffiths:

"Setting ground rules helps build team cohesion, especially in distributed teams. It ensures that all members agree on protocols for meetings, updates, and decision-making." (PMI-ACP Exam Prep, Chapter 4 - Team Performance) Incorrect options:

- * A is important but typically follows after agreements are in place.
- * B is routine communication-not the first foundational step.
- * D supports cohesion but does not establish operational alignment.

NEW QUESTION # 387

As user stories are developed, what should be done to record and update acceptance criteria?

- A. Update new tasks in the project plan.
- B. Update current user stories.
- C. Add more user stories.
- D. Use sprint retrospectives.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The correct answer is C - Update current user stories.

Acceptance criteria are part of a user story's definition and describe the specific conditions under which the story is considered complete. As user stories evolve and more clarity is gained, acceptance criteria must be updated within the user story itself to ensure mutual understanding of scope and expectations between the product owner and the development team.

According to PMI Agile Practice Guide:

"Acceptance criteria are detailed during backlog refinement and are commonly added to user stories to define the done conditions. These are updated throughout the lifecycle of the story as more details emerge." (PMI Agile Practice Guide, Section 5.2 - Backlog Refinement) Mike Griffiths reinforces this:

"Acceptance criteria serve as the test conditions for confirming user stories. They are not fixed and can be elaborated collaboratively during grooming or development, and are updated directly in the user story." (Mike Griffiths, PMI-ACP Exam Prep, Chapter 3 - Value-Driven Delivery) Other options:

- * A refers to adding more stories, not updating existing ones.
- * B (retrospectives) are used for process improvement, not for editing user stories.
- * D (project plan) reflects a traditional mindset and not applicable in Agile.
