- A. Create a Case Macro

- A. Re-create them manually.
- B. Use Salesforce Workbench.
- C. Use a change set.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Deploying permission sets from a sandbox to production following best practices involves using change sets. Change sets allow administrators to push configuration changes, such as permission sets, from a sandbox environment to production in a controlled and secure manner. This method ensures that all configurations have been tested in a non-production environment before being implemented in production, reducing the risk of errors and maintaining system integrity.

- A. Create a sharing rule for each division to provide access using the role hierarchy.
- B. Create a sharing rule for each division to provide access based on criteria of the article.
- C. Create a single data category group for each division and provide access using the role hierarchy.

NEW QUESTION # 95

Universal Containers (UC) provides customer support for two separate business groups. UC requires that cases for each business group have different support processes and fields.

Which feature should a consultant implement to meet the requirement?

- A. Omni-Channel

- B. Record Types
- C. Dynamic Forms

Answer: B

Explanation:

To accommodate different support processes and fields for two separate business groups at Universal Containers (UC), implementing Record Types is the appropriate solution. Record Types enable UC to define different sets of picklist values, page layouts, and processes for each business group's cases. This allows for customization of the user interface and the data model to reflect the specific requirements of each group, ensuring that agents have access to the relevant fields and follow the correct process when managing cases. This customization enhances the efficiency and effectiveness of case management by aligning it with the distinct needs of each business group.
