BCS Foundation Certificate in Business Analysis V4.0 Sample Questions (Q32-Q37):

NEW QUESTION # 32

Which of the following investigation techniques allows the analyst to build rapport, discuss confidential issues and obtain an appreciation of the political landscape of how the business operates?

- A. Questionnaire
- B. Special purpose records
- C. Document analysis
- D. Interviews

Answer: D

Explanation:

The investigation technique best suited to achieve these outcomes is the Interview. A one-on-one interview provides a private and focused setting, which is essential for discussing confidential or politically sensitive issues that a stakeholder would not be comfortable raising in a group or on a written questionnaire. The personal interaction during an interview is the most effective way to build rapport with the stakeholder, leading to more open and honest communication. This deeper level of trust and detailed conversation is what allows the analyst to gain a richer appreciation of the political and cultural landscape of the business. Special purpose records, document analysis, and questionnaires are more impersonal and cannot provide the same level of qualitative insight or trust.

NEW QUESTION # 33

It has been suggested that five clerical posts can be abolished when a new computer system is implemented. Under which category of costs or benefits will this be recorded?

- D. Intangible costs.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 34

In which section of a requirements document would technical requirements be recorded?

- A. Requirements catalogue
- B. Function models
- C. Data model
- D. Glossary of terms

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Requirements Catalogue (or the Requirements Specification section) is the comprehensive, organised list of all types of requirements. Technical Requirements are the non-functional constraints placed on the solution's design or build (e.g., specific hardware, operating system compatibility, integration protocols). While these inform other models, they are typically documented and tracked with other requirements (Functional and Non-functional) in the master Requirements Catalogue, often within the Non-functional or System Requirements section of the catalogue structure. Options A, B, and C are supporting documents or models, not the primary repository for a list of technical requirements.
