NEW QUESTION # 154

Which Snowflake view is used to support compliance auditing?

- A. ACCESS_HISTORY
- B. COPY_HISTORY
- C. ROW ACCESS POLICIES
- D. QUERY_HISTORY

Answer: A

Explanation:

The ACCESS_HISTORY view in Snowflake is utilized to support compliance auditing. It provides detailed information on data access within Snowflake, including reads and writes by user queries. This view is essential for regulatory compliance auditing as it offers insights into the usage of tables and columns, and maintains a direct link between the user, the query, and the accessed data.

NEW QUESTION # 155

What command is used to export or unload data from Snowflake?

- A. COPY INTO @mystage
- B. INSERT @mystage
- C. PUT @mystage
- D. GET @mystage

Answer: C

Explanation:

The command used to export or unload data from Snowflake to a stage (such as a file in an S3 bucket, Azure Blob Storage, or Google Cloud Storage) is the PUT command. The PUT command is designed to upload data files from a local file system (in the case of SnowSQL or other client) or a virtual warehouse to a specified stage. This functionality is critical for scenarios where data needs to be extracted from Snowflake for use in external systems, backups, or further processing.

The syntax for the PUT command follows the structure: PUT file://<local_file_path> @<stage_name>, where <local_file_path> specifies the path to the file(s) on the local file system that you wish to upload, and <stage_name> specifies the destination stage in Snowflake.

It's important to distinguish that the PUT command is used for exporting data out of Snowflake, whereas the COPY INTO <table> command is used for importing data into Snowflake from a stage. The GET command, on the other hand, is used to download files from a stage to the local file system, essentially the inverse operation of the PUT command.
