NEW QUESTION # 71

In which two ways can Calm be deployed? (Choose two.)

- A. Deployed as a VM on ESXi
- B. Enabled inside of Prism Element
- C. Deployed as a VM on AHV
- D. Deployed as a VM on Hyper-V

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

Calm can be deployed as a VM on ESXi or AHV hypervisors and leverage calm functionality without the Nutanix infrastructure. Calm can also be enabled inside of Prism Central, which is a VM that can run on any Nutanix supported hypervisor, including ESXi and AHV. However, Calm cannot be enabled inside of Prism Element, which is the management interface for each Nutanix cluster. Calm also cannot be deployed as a VM on Hyper-V, as this is not a supported hypervisor for Calm. NEW QUESTION # 72

What should be done to scale out an existing Calm environment?

- A. Back up the data and create three Calm VMS from the Calm VM QCOW2 image.
- B. Create new prism Central Scale-Out VMS and enable Calm within the GUI,
- C. Run cluster destroy on the VM that will be the master Calm VM.
- D. Back up the data and create three Calm VMS from the Calm VM OVA template.

Answer: D

Explanation:

According to the Nutanix Calm documentation¹, to scale out an existing Calm environment, the administrator needs to back up the data and create three Calm VMs from the Calm VM OVA template. The administrator then needs to configure the Calm VMs as a cluster and restore the data from the backup. The other options are incorrect because they either do not use the correct image format, do not create a cluster of Calm VMs, or destroy the existing Calm VM. Reference:
