- A. Consolidated Gaps, Solutions, and Dependencies Matrix
- B. Stakeholder Map
- C. Architecture Contracts

- * Is updated in Phase E: Opportunities and Solutions.
- * Helps the architect understand both the baseline and the target for the enterprise.

Let's review each option:

* A. Architecture Contracts

* These are created in Phase G: Implementation Governance.

* Incorrect.

* B. Capability Assessment

* In Phase A, the Capability Assessment is produced to assess the organization's current capability maturity and to identify strengths and weaknesses (baseline).

* In Phase E, it is updated to reflect the required target capability and to inform planning of the work packages and Transition Architectures.

* This deliverable helps architects understand both baseline and target capability for the enterprise.

* Correct.

* C. Consolidated Gaps, Solutions, and Dependencies Matrix

* This is produced in Phase E to consolidate results from Gap Analysis across Phases B, C, and D.

* It is not started in Phase A, so it does not meet the condition.

* Incorrect.

* D. Stakeholder Map

Which of the following supports the need to govern Enterprise Architecture?

- A. The Stakeholders preferences may go beyond the architecture project scope and needs control
- B. The Architecture Project mandates the governance of the target architecture
- C. Best practice governance enables the organization to control value realization
- D. The TOGAF standard cannot be used without executive governance

Answer: C

Explanation:

This statement best supports the need to govern Enterprise Architecture. Best practice governance enables the organization to control value realization by ensuring that architectures are aligned with the enterprise's strategy and objectives, meet the quality and performance requirements, and deliver the expected benefits and outcomes. The Architecture Project does not mandate the governance of the target architecture, but rather follows the governance framework established by the enterprise. The TOGAF standard can be used without executive governance, but it is recommended that executive sponsorship and support are obtained for successful architecture development and transition. The Stakeholders preferences may go beyond the architecture project scope and need control, but this is not the primary reason for governing Enterprise Architecture.
