Cisco Certified Design Expert (CCDE) Written Exam Sample Questions (Q85-Q90):

NEW QUESTION # 85

You are leading design discussions about IPv6 implementation into an existing Enterprise network. A question is raised regarding older Layer 2 switches that exist in the network, and if any changes are required to these switches for successful IPv6 implementation. Which two responses do you give? (Choose two.)

- A. IPv6 is transparent on Layer 2 switches so no changes are needed to the Layer 2 switches
- B. If IPv6 anycast deployment is planned, then make sure that Layer 2 switches support DHCPv6 snooping at Layer 2 switches
- C. If IPv6 multicast deployment is planned, then make sure that Layer 2 switches support MLD snooping at Layer 2 switches
- D. If IPv6 anycast deployment is planned, then make sure that Layer 2 switches support ICMPv6 snooping at Layer 2 switches
- E. If IPv6 anycast deployment is planned then make sure that Layer 2 switches support NO snooping at Layer 2 switches

Answer: C,E

NEW QUESTION # 86

Refer to the exhibit. This network is running OSPF and EIGRP as the routing protocols. Mutual redistribution of the routing protocols has been configured on the appropriate ASBRs. The OSPF network must be designed so that flapping routes in EIGRP domains do not affect the SPF runs within OSPF. The design solution must not affect the way EIGRP routes are propagated into the EIGRP domains. Which technique accomplishes the requirement?

- A. route summarization on the appropriate ASBRs.
- B. route summarization the ASBR interfaces facing the OSPF domain
- C. route summarization on EIDRP routers connecting toward the ASBR
- D. route summarization on the appropriate ABRS.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 87

Company XYZ has designed their network to run GRE over IPsec on their Internet-based VPN to connect two sites. Which IPsec tunneling feature can they enable to optimize the data flow while ensuring that the headers contain no duplicate IP addresses?

- A. Transport Mode in IPsec Phase II
- B. Tunnel Mode in IPsec Phase I
- C. Transport Mode in IPsec Phase I
- D. Tunnel Mode in IPsec Phase II

Answer: A

Explanation:

B (Transport Mode in IPsec Phase II): When GRE is running over IPsec, IPsec Transport Mode is often preferred. In Transport Mode, only the payload (GRE encapsulated packet) is encrypted and authenticated, while the original IP header remains untouched. This eliminates redundant IP headers, avoiding duplicate addressing and reducing overhead - optimizing bandwidth efficiency across the Internet VPN.

GRE provides the tunneling function, while IPsec in Transport Mode secures the GRE-encapsulated traffic.

Transport Mode is negotiated during IPsec Phase II (Quick Mode), where actual data protection parameters are established.

Other options explained:

A: Phase I is for establishing secure channels, not for data encapsulation.

C: Tunnel Mode would encapsulate the entire packet (including GRE header), adding unnecessary additional IP headers in this GRE over IPsec design.

D: Tunnel Mode does not apply at Phase I - Phase I is only for IKE negotiation.

NEW QUESTION # 88

Which two benefits can software defined networks provide to businesses? (Choose two.)

- A. enables innovation
- B. reduced latency
- C. reduction of OpEx/CapEx
- D. provides additional redundancy
- E. meets high traffic demands
- F. decentralized management

Answer: A,C

NEW QUESTION # 89

Which mechanism enables small, unmanaged switches to plug into ports of access switches without risking switch loops?

- A. UDLD
- B. BPDU guard
- C. PortFast
- D. Root guard

Answer: B
