Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q55-Q60):

NEW QUESTION # 55

The storefront integrates with a REST based Address verification service (AVS) that uses token based security. The sequence of calls in the API documentation for this AVS looks like the following

1. Client authentication call, which contains the merchantId and secret in a GET request and returns a token in the response.
2. Address verification call, which contains the token and the address to verify in a POST request.

Once the token is obtained, it is valid for hours and it is not needed to request a new one for subsequent address verification calls, the AVS charges for every request made no matter if it is client authentication call or address verification call.

Which three strategies could be applied to allow for efficient use of the service without compromising security? Choose 3 answers

- A. Obtain the token from a custom cache before making the client authentication call.
- B. Use a job to store and update the token in a custom object that is used from the storefront code
- C. Apply page caching to the client authentication controller that is used with AJAX.
- D. Obtain the token from local storage of the browser and update it once it expires.
- E. Use HTTPService caching for the client authentication call.

Answer: B,C,E

NEW QUESTION # 56

An Architect to notify by the Business that order conversion dramatically dropped a few hours after go live. Further investigation points out that customers cannot proceed to checkout anymore. The Architect is aware that a custom inventory checks with a third-party API is enforced at the beginning of checkout, and that customers are redirected to the basket page when items are no longer in stock. Which tool can clearly confirm that the problem is indeed caused by the inventory check?

- A. Realtime Report from Reports and Dashboards
- B. Pipeline Profiler from Business Manager
- C. Service Status from Business Manager
- D. Sales Dashboard from Reports and Dashboards

Answer: B

Explanation:

The appropriate tool to verify that the problem is indeed caused by the inventory check at the beginning of checkout is the Pipeline Profiler in Business Manager. This tool allows an architect to analyze the performance of specific code execution paths, including those involving third-party API calls. It helps identify bottlenecks and inefficiencies in the pipeline execution, particularly useful in situations where custom code like inventory checks may impact site functionality. The use of the Pipeline Profiler would enable the architect to pinpoint if the custom inventory check is causing the checkout process to fail or redirect users inappropriately.

NEW QUESTION # 57

The Client has just acquired a new brand and wants to integrate the new brand's current ecommerce site into a current realm as a new site. The acquisition has its own Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system for product data and inventory. The new site will use the existing realm's Order Management System (OHS) and Customer Relationship Management (CRM) system.

What two requirements does the Architect need to keep in mind when creating the technical specification document?

Choose 2 answers

- A. A new inventory Import Job must be created to manage inventory.
- B. A new product Import Job must be created to manage products.
- C. A new customer export Job must be created to export customers.
- D. A new order export job must be created to export orders.

- A. Ability to create a B2C storefront using Digital Experiences.
- B. Ability to have a customer leave a journey when they have an escalated case.
- C. Ability to allow the agent to see purchase history to support case management
- D. Ability to de-duplicate and create a single customer identity.

Answer: C,D

NEW QUESTION # 59

During discovery, the customer required a feature that is not included in the standard Storefront Reference Architecture (SFRA). In order to save budget, the Architect needs to find the quickest way to implement this feature.

What is the primary resource the Architect should use to search for an existing community implementation of the requested feature?

- A. Salesforce Trailblazer Portal
- B. Salesforce Commerce Cloud Trailblazer community
- C. Salesforce B2C Commerce Documentation
- D. Salesforce Commerce Cloud GitHub repository

Answer: D

Explanation:

When seeking a community implementation of a feature not included in the standard Storefront Reference Architecture (SFRA), the primary resource should be the Salesforce Commerce Cloud GitHub repository (Answer A). This repository often contains projects and code samples contributed by other developers in the community, which might include custom implementations that could be adapted to meet the customer's requirements. This approach not only leverages existing solutions that have been shared publicly but also can significantly save time and resources in development.
