VMware vSphere 8.x Professional Sample Questions (Q34-Q39):

NEW QUESTION # 34

An administrator is asked to segregate virtual machine (VM) traffic by VLAN on a vSphere standard switch The following requirements must be met:

- *VLAN ID on the switch port group must be 4095.
- *VLAN tagging must be done at the VM level.

Which tagging mode is required?

- A. None
- B. External Switch Tagging (EST)
- C. Virtual Guest Tagging (VGT)
- D. Virtual Switch Tagging (VST)

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

The tagging mode that is required is Virtual Guest Tagging (VGT), which allows VLAN tagging to be done at the VM level. VGT requires that the VLAN ID on the switch port group be set to 4095, which is a special value that indicates that packets from all VLANs are allowed to pass through. References:

NEW QUESTION # 35

An administrator is tasked with configuring vSphere Trust Authority. The administrator has completed the following steps:

- * Set up the workstation
- * Enabled the Trust Authority Administrator
- * Enabled the Trust Authority State
- * Collected information about the ESXi hosts and vCenter to be trusted

Which step does the administrator need to complete next?

- A. Create the Key Provider on the Trusted Cluster
- B. Import the Trusted Cluster information to the Trusted Hosts
- C. Import the Trusted Host information to the Trust Authority Cluster
- D. Import the Trusted Host information to the Trusted Cluster

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

To complete the configuration of vSphere Trust Authority, after collecting information about the ESXi hosts and vCenter to be trusted, the administrator needs to import the Trusted Host information to the Trusted Cluster, which establishes trust between them. References:

NEW QUESTION # 36

An administrator has configured Storage I/O Control (SIOC) on a Virtual Machine File System (VMFS) datastore.

- *The datastore supports 30,000 IOPS
- *Storage I/O Control has been set to manual
- *Storage I/O Control is triggered when latency hits 30 ms
- *The datastore contains 3 virtual machines (VMs)
- *A gold tier VM
- *A silver tier VM
- *A bronze tier VM

Assuming the datastore latency does not exceed 29ms, what is the maximum number of IOPS the bronze tier VM is entitled to?

- A. 20,000
- B. 10,000
- C. 5,000
- D. 30,000

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

The bronze tier VM is entitled to 30,000 IOPS, which is the maximum number of IOPS that the datastore supports. Storage I/O Control (SIOC) does not limit the IOPS of any VM unless the datastore latency exceeds the threshold, which is 30 ms in this case. Therefore, as long as the datastore latency is below 29 ms, the bronze tier VM can use up to 30,000 IOPS. References:

NEW QUESTION # 37

An administrator needs to create affinity rules for the following vSphere cluster setup:

- * The cluster contains two virtual machines (VMs) named app01 and app02.
 - * The cluster contains six hosts named esx11 through esx16.
 - * The app01 and app02 VMs run software that is licensed to run only on esx11, esx12, or esx13.
 - * vSphere Distributed Resource Scheduler (DRS) is configured
- Which set of steps must the administrator perform to ensure that the licensing requirements are met for app01 and app02?

- A. 1 Add the VMs to a VM group and the esx11 - esx13 hosts to a host group.
2 Create a VM-Host required rule between the VM group and the host group.
- B. 1. Add the VMs to a VM group and the esx11 - esx13 hosts to a host group.
2. Create a VM-Host preferential rule between the VM group and the host group
- C. 1. Add all the hosts to a host group.
2. Create a VM-VM anti-affinity rule for app01 and app02
- D. 1. Add the esx11 - esx13 hosts to a host group
2. Create a VM-VM affinity rule for app01 and app02

Answer: A

Explanation:

Add the VMs to a VM group and the esx11 - esx13 hosts to a host group, which allows the administrator to group together virtual machines or hosts that share common characteristics or requirements.
