- D. Obstacle

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 56
What needs to be installed in the battery room when using Lithium-ion batteries?

- A. A proper ventilation system since Lithium-ion batteries produce highly flammable Hydrogen gas during charging.
- B. A proper supply of distilled water.
- C. A battery management system to monitor and prevent unsafe temperatures during charging/discharging.
- D. High capacity air-conditioning equipment since Lithium-ion batteries are sensitive to high temperatures, which can reduce their lifetime.

Answer: C

Explanation:
According to the EPI Data Centre Training Framework, lithium-ion batteries are becoming more popular in data centres due to their higher energy density, longer lifespan, and lower maintenance costs compared to lead-acid batteries1. However, lithium-ion batteries also have some drawbacks, such as higher initial cost, stricter safety requirements, and potential thermal runaway risks1. Therefore, a battery management system (BMS) is essential to monitor and control the voltage, current, temperature, and state of charge of each battery cell or module, and to prevent overcharging, over-discharging, or overheating23. A BMS can also communicate with the UPS system and provide information on the battery status, performance, and health2.

NEW QUESTION # 57
When having two non-synchronized power sources, the ATS / STS need to be of the type:

- A. Both make before break or break before make can be used.
- B. Make before break.
- C. Break before make.
- D. Both an ATS and STS can never handle two non-synchronized sources.

Answer: C

Explanation:
When having two non-synchronized power sources, the ATS / STS need to be of the type break before make, which means that the switch disconnects from one source before connecting to the other source. This prevents any short circuit, back feed, or phase mismatch that could occur if the two sources were connected simultaneously. Break before make switches are also known as open transition switches, because they create a brief interruption in the power supply during the switching process. This interruption is usually acceptable for most ICT equipment, as they have internal power supplies or batteries that can handle the transient. However, if the interruption is not acceptable, then the two power sources need to be synchronized before switching, which requires a make before break switch, also known as a closed transition switch. Make before break switches connect to the second source before disconnecting from the first source, which ensures a seamless transfer of power without any interruption. However, make before break switches require that the two sources have the same voltage, frequency, and phase, which can be achieved by using a synchronization module or a phase-locked loop.

NEW QUESTION # 58
Looking from within the Computer room, what should the door-swing (opening) direction be?

- A. Instead of swinging doors, sliding doors are preferred
- B. Inwards, code permitted
- C. Depends on the type of Computer room
- D. Outwards, code permitted

Answer: D

Explanation:
For safety and emergency egress, doors should swing outwards (towards the exit). This is a common building code and best practice in data centers.

NEW QUESTION # 59

Which one of the following is used in Measuring Business Value?

- A. Upfront Cost
- B. Reliability
- C. Scalability
- D. Regeneration Cost

Answer: C

Explanation:
Measuring business value is the process of assessing the benefits and costs of IT investments and initiatives in relation to the strategic objectives and priorities of the organization. One of the factors that can be used to measure business value is scalability, which is the ability of a system or component to handle increasing workloads or demands without compromising performance, quality, or functionality. Scalability is important for business value because it enables the organization to adapt to changing market conditions, customer expectations, and growth opportunities. Scalability can also reduce operational costs, increase efficiency, and improve customer satisfaction. Therefore, scalability is one of the factors that can be used in measuring business value.
