What may stand in place of***?

Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. The name of a type defined privately in class ZCL_CLASS_A
- B. The name of a type defined privately in another class
- C. The name of a data element from the ABAP Dictionary

NEW QUESTION # 16

In ABAP SQL, which of the following can be assigned an alias? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. database table
- B. field (from field list)
- C. group criterion (from group by clause)
- D. order criterion (from order by clause)

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

In ABAP SQL, an alias is a temporary name that can be assigned to a field or a database table in a query. An alias can be used to make the query more readable, to avoid name conflicts, or to access fields or tables with long names. An alias is created with the AS keyword and is only valid for the duration of the query<sup>1</sup>.

The following are examples of how to assign an alias to a field or a database table in ABAP SQL:

B . field (from field list): A field is a column of a table or a view that contains data of a certain type. A field can be assigned an alias in the field list of a SELECT statement, which specifies the fields that are selected from the data source. For example, the following query assigns the alias name to the field carname of the table scarr:

```
SELECT carrid, carname AS name FROM scarr.
```

The alias name can be used instead of carname in other clauses of the query, such as WHERE, GROUP BY, ORDER BY, and so on<sup>2</sup>.

C . database table: A database table is a collection of data that is organized in rows and columns. A database table can be assigned an alias in the FROM clause of a SELECT statement, which specifies the data source that is selected from. For example, the following query assigns the alias c to the table scarr:

```
SELECT c.carrid, c.carname FROM scarr AS c.
```

The alias c can be used instead of scarr in other clauses of the query, such as WHERE, JOIN, GROUP BY, ORDER BY, and so on<sup>3</sup>.

The following are not valid for assigning an alias in ABAP SQL:

A . order criterion (from order by clause): An order criterion is a field or an expression that is used to sort the result set of a query in ascending or descending order. An order criterion cannot be assigned an alias in the ORDER BY clause of a SELECT statement, because the alias is not visible in this clause. The alias can only be used in the clauses that follow the clause where it is defined<sup>1</sup>.

D . group criterion (from group by clause): A group criterion is a field or an expression that is used to group the result set of a query into subsets that share the same values. A group criterion cannot be assigned an alias in the GROUP BY clause of a SELECT statement, because the alias is not visible in this clause. The alias can only be used in the clauses that follow the clause where it is defined<sup>1</sup>.

NEW QUESTION # 17

- B. Attributes can only be changed by the class.

NEW QUESTION # 19

When you join two database tables, which of the following rules applies to the database fields you use in the join?

- A. They must always have an alias name.
- B. They must be compared with an ON condition.
- C. They must have the same name, e.g. coll = coll.
- D. They must be at the same position in their table, for example left_table-coll = right_table-coll.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

When performing a JOIN in ABAP SQL or CDS:

* The key requirement is to specify the ON condition, which compares fields from the two tables, typically via equality (e.g., ON a.field = b.field). Hence, Option D is correct.

* The fields do not need to have the same name (Option C is incorrect).

* The position in the table structure is irrelevant (Option A is incorrect).

* An alias name is optional, not mandatory (Option B is incorrect).

Reference: SAP Help 3, page 3 - When defining CDS views with joins, the ON condition defines the semantic relationship between entities.
