The engineer uses OAuth with refresh on the Cisco UCM SIP lines for extra security and improved user experience. During the setup, Mobile and Remote Access does not work, it is enabled on the Cisco UCM and Cisco Expressways. SIP trunks on ports 5090 and 5091 are configured to avoid conflicts with other SIP trunks between internal Cisco UCM clusters. The traversal zone also uses port 6500. The traversal zone between Expressways shows no errors, and the requests hit Expressway-E from the Internet. What is the reason that the solution does not work?

- B. Mobile and Remote Access does not support OAuth with refresh with this configuration.

A video device registered with Cisco UCM failed to make an outbound B2B call. From Expressway-C diagnostic logs, an engineer found that the destination pattern is "john@example.com:5061", and the call was dropped with a 404 response code from Expressway-C. The search rule intended for this call-in Expressway-C is configured for Alias Pattern Match, Pattern type "Suffix," and Pattern "example.com". How must the configuration be changed to allow the call?
