Google Ads Video Professional Assessment Exam Sample Questions (Q51-Q56):

NEW QUESTION # 51

Having relied on Google Search campaigns in the past, the marketing team at a leading catering business now wants to take advantage of a Google Video campaign with a "Sales" campaign goal. What's the benefit of creating their Google Video campaign in the same account as their Google Search campaigns?

- A. Avoiding double serving ads in the Google Search results.
- B. Preventing Google ads from double counting conversions.
- C. Enabling Video ad extensions within their Google Search campaign ads.
- D. Receiving a reduction on their average cost-per-view.

Answer: B

Explanation:

B: Preventing Google ads from double counting conversions.

Keeping campaigns in the same account allows Google Ads to accurately track conversions across different campaign types.

This prevents attributing the same conversion to multiple campaigns, ensuring accurate reporting.

The other options are not direct benefits of keeping campaigns in the same account.

NEW QUESTION # 52

Your main goal is to drive sales through your company's website, and you've been advised to track conversion events like page visits and adding to cart. Why is tracking those lighter conversion events advisable?

- A. It's advisable because they have the same value as a primary conversion.
- B. It's advisable because they create greater loyalty among customers.
- C. It's advisable because they help increase brand awareness.
- D. It's advisable because they can be predictive of a full sale.

Answer: D

Explanation:

D: It's advisable because they can be predictive of a full sale: These "lighter" conversions (micro-conversions) indicate user interest and engagement, which often lead to final sales.

Tracking these events provides valuable insights into the customer journey and helps optimize campaigns.

The other options are not the primary reason to track micro-conversions.

NEW QUESTION # 53

After relying on word-of-mouth marketing for years, a family-owned restaurant decides to try a Video campaign to attract catering contracts. They believe a leads campaign goal would be best for that marketing objective. What other action should the restaurant take to make sure their campaign is effective?

- A. They should cross-check their ad schedule against when they received leads.
- B. They should enable Google Ads conversion tracking.
- C. They should use the contact form to ask where potential customers learned about the restaurant.
- D. They should ask their customers whether they've seen the videos.

Answer: B

Explanation:

C: They should enable Google Ads conversion tracking.

Conversion tracking is essential for measuring the effectiveness of a leads campaign.

It allows the restaurant to see which ads and keywords are driving leads, enabling them to optimize their campaign.

While option D is useful, tracking conversions is the core first step.

NEW QUESTION # 54

To find out how users' interactions with your video ads leads to product sales, what feature of Video action campaign would you use?

- A. You'd use click-through rate.

- B. You'd use Custom Intent Audiences.
- C. You'd use smart bidding.
- D. You'd use conversion tracking.

Answer: D

Explanation:

A: You'd use conversion tracking.

Conversion tracking allows you to measure the specific actions users take after interacting with your ads, such as product sales.

This provides insights into the effectiveness of your video ads in driving conversions.

The other options are not directly related to measuring sales.

NEW QUESTION # 55

You want to get recommendations for features, settings, and solutions for your Google Video campaign. How can you get the information you need when setting up a campaign?

- A. By setting up a budget for the new campaign.
- B. By linking Google Ads to your YouTube channel.
- C. By uploading at least one video to YouTube.
- D. By selecting a campaign goal.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Choosing a campaign goal informs Google Ads about your marketing objectives.

This allows Google Ads to provide relevant recommendations for features, settings, and solutions.

The other options are necessary steps, but selecting a goal is the primary driver for recommendations.
