PMI Agile Certified Practitioner Sample Questions (Q161-Q166):

NEW QUESTION # 161

An agile project leader notices that the team's velocity has decreased. In examining data provided by team members, the project leader discovers that one team member has been slow to enter story statuses.

What can happen as a result?

- A. The team will be unable to judge the project design's validity
- B. The team cannot give accurate updates to management
- C. Team collaboration cannot be measured effectively
- D. The team will be unable to understand the iteration's status

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 162

A scrum team is experiencing lengthy discussions leading to no concrete actions during their scrum events.

The scrum master determines that these inefficient meetings are producing waste.

What should the scrum master do to make the meetings more efficient?

- A. Issue fixed agendas and a decision log for all scrum events to ensure that only relevant agenda points are discussed and decisions are appropriately captured.
- B. Remind the team of the purpose of each scrum event, and implement a policy that long conversations deviating from the scope of each event will be stopped.
- C. Remind the team that staying on topic during meetings is part of being a self-managing team.
- D. Ask the product owner to conduct these discussions in individual meetings with the team members.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The scrum master should first remind the team of the purpose and goals of each scrum event (such as the daily standup, sprint planning, sprint review, and retrospective) to ensure that they remain focused on their intended outcomes. The scrum master can then implement a policy that ensures discussions that deviate from the scope of the event are stopped. This approach keeps the team on track, prevents time-wasting conversations, and helps maintain the efficiency of the events.

This method empowers the team to stay focused on what is essential for each event and encourages self-management while still providing room for relevant discussions. In doing so, the team can achieve the desired outcomes of each scrum event without unnecessary delays.
