- A. Allow for fewer network failures
- B. Reduce network configuration complexity
- C. Inflate licensing costs
- D. Provide centralization of primary IT functions
- E. Increase network bandwidth usage

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

* C (Centralized IT functions): Controllers centralize management, automation, analytics, and assurance.

Other options explained:

* A: Licensing varies but not universally inflated.

* D: Failures are dependent on hardware design, not controller presence.

* E: SDN does not inherently increase bandwidth usage.

NEW QUESTION # 235

Other options:

* B: GETVPN requires coordination and is more complex to deploy.

* C: Central firewalls don't encrypt traffic over the WAN.

* D: VRF-Lite with IPsec is viable but more complex than direct IPsec tunnels.

NEW QUESTION # 236

Risk is a major determining factor in whether a company chooses to go with a public cloud, a private or a hybrid of both. What are two factors that impact the decision on which cloud service model to use? (Choose two)

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

Legacy architectures influence the choice because existing systems may require specific integration or migration strategies, affecting whether a public, private, or hybrid cloud model is suitable.

Regulation plays a critical role as compliance requirements (data privacy, security standards, industry-specific regulations) can restrict where and how data and workloads are hosted, often favoring private or hybrid clouds for sensitive data.
