Cisco Designing Cisco Enterprise Wireless Networks Sample Questions

(Q154-Q159):

NEW QUESTION # 154

A wireless network consists of:

- * two IOS XE controllers installed in a data center
- * 9100 series APs
- * corporate and a guest WLAN

The customer must high availability pair two Cisco WLCs for the client SSO. Which two design approaches must the engineer take to meet the requirement? (Choose two.)

- A. Both WLCs must have the same service port IP address.
- B. The controllers must run the same operating system version.
- C. Each WLC must have a unique redundancy management IP address.
- D. The controllers must have the same number of licenses.
- E. Both WLCs must have the same redundancy management IP address.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

For high availability pairing of two Cisco WLCs for client SSO, it is essential that both controllers have the same number of licenses to ensure feature parity and seamless failover. Additionally, they must run the same operating system version to avoid compatibility issues during SSO operations.

NEW QUESTION # 155

Refer to the exhibit. What is the main reason why the Wi-Fi design engineer took a different approach than installing the APs in the offices, even though that installation provides better coverage?

- A. aesthetics
- B. transmit power considerations
- C. power supply considerations
- D. antenna gain

Answer: B

Explanation:

Section: Wired and Wireless Infrastructure

NEW QUESTION # 156

An engineer changed the TPC Power Threshold for a wireless deployment from the default value to -65 dBm. The engineer conducts a new post-deployment Survey to validate the results. What is the expected outcome?

- A. Decreased channel overlap
- B. Increase cell size
- C. Increased received sensitivity
- D. Decreased client signal strength

Answer: D

Explanation:

Changing the TPC Power Threshold to -65 dBm would generally result in a decrease in the transmit power of APs to maintain a smaller cell size. This helps in reducing interference and improving overall network performance. A lower threshold means the APs reduce their power to ensure the signal does not exceed -65 dBm, leading to decreased signal strength at the client side.

NEW QUESTION # 157

An engineer has designed an anchor redundancy for guest clients connecting to SSID with auto-anchor configured. After adding a second Anchor WLC under the SSID mobility anchor list, clients are load-balanced between existing and new anchors instead of having one anchor as active and the other one as standby. Which feature should be included in the design that will be configured on the WLC running

8.1 or above to ensure anchor redundancy?

- A. Guest Anchor Priority
- B. 802.11r
- C. Auto-Anchor Foreign Mapping
- D. AP groups

Answer: A

Explanation:

When designing anchor redundancy for guest clients with auto-anchor configured on a WLC running version 8.1 or above, setting up Guest Anchor Priority ensures that one anchor is treated as active while another acts as standby rather than load-balancing clients between anchors which is not desired in this case. NEW QUESTION # 158

An engineer is designing a wireless network that will support many different types of wireless clients. When conducting the survey, which client must be used to ensure a consistent experience for all of the wireless clients?

- A. the client that has the highest RF properties
- B. the client with the worst RF characteristics
- C. the client that is used most by the company
- D. the client that is used least by the company
