Splunk Core Certified Power User Exam Sample Questions (Q53-Q58):

NEW QUESTION # 53

When performing a regular expression (regex) field extraction using the Field Extractor (FX), what happens when the require option is used?

- A. The events without the required field will not display in searches.
- B. The regex can no longer be edited.
- C. The field being extracted will be required for all future events.
- D. Only events with the required string will be included in the extraction.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Field Extractor (FX) allows you to use regular expressions (regex) to extract fields from your events using a graphical interface or by manually editing the regex2. When you use the FX to perform a regex field extraction, you can use the require option to specify a string that must be present in an event for it to be included in the extraction². This way, you can filter out events that do not contain the required string and focus on the events that are relevant for your extraction². Therefore, option D is correct, while options A, B and C are incorrect.

NEW QUESTION # 54

Which of the following is NOT a stats function:

- A. count
- B. sum
- C. avg
- D. addtotals

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 55

The timechart command is an example of which of the following command types?

- A. Orchestrating
- B. Transforming
- C. Statistical
- D. Generating

Answer: B

Explanation:

The correct answer is B. Transforming.

The explanation is as follows:

The timechart command is a Splunk command that creates a time series chart with corresponding table of statistics¹².

A timechart is a statistical aggregation applied to a field to produce a chart, with time used as the X-axis¹.

You can specify a split-by field, where each distinct value of the split-by field becomes a series in the chart¹.

Transforming commands are commands that change the format of the search results into a data structure that can be easily visualized³. Transforming commands often use stats functions to aggregate and summarize data³.

Therefore, the timechart command is an example of a transforming command, as it transforms the search results into a chart and a table using stats functions¹²³.

NEW QUESTION # 56

Using the export function, you can export search results as _____.(Select all that apply)

- A. Json
- B. Html
- C. Xml
- D. A php file

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

Using the export function, you can export search results as XML or JSON². The export function allows you to save your search results in a structured format that can be used by other applications or tools². You can use the output_mode parameter to specify whether you want to export your results as XML or JSON². Therefore, options A and B are correct, while options C and D are incorrect because they are not formats that you can export your search results as.
