ISQI IREB Certified Professional for Requirements Engineering. Foundation Level Sample Questions (Q62-Q67):

NEW QUESTION # 62

In regard to the quality criteria for requirements, it is correct to say that:

- A. Non-redundant is a quality criteria for work products covering multiple requirements.
- B. Traceable is a quality criteria for work products covering multiple requirements.
- C. All quality criteria have the same relative importance.
- D. Complete is an exclusive quality criteria for single requirements.
- E. Consistent is a quality criteria for single requirements.

Answer: A,B

NEW QUESTION # 63

In delimiting system and system context, a differentiation is made between the system boundary and the context boundary. This differentiation is important in order to understand which aspects impact on the requirements of the system to be developed and which do not. Choose the two correct statements. (2 Points)

- A. Only the aspects within the system boundary must be taken into account in order to determine the requirements of the system to be developed.
- B. The system boundary and the context boundary define the system context.
- C. The system context includes all aspects that are not relevant to the requirements of the planned system.
- D. The context boundary separates the system from the system context.
- E. The selection of the system boundary establishes which aspects are covered by the system to be developed and which lie beyond its scope.

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION # 64

Choose the right sentence regarding stakeholders.

- A. All the other options are wrong.
- B. It is mandatory that at least one stakeholder of each role be available for elicitation.
- C. Each stakeholder has one single role.
- D. In most cases, it is enough to consider only end-user needs.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

The syllabus stresses that stakeholders can take multiple roles simultaneously-someone may be both user and maintainer, for example. Thus, statement A is false. While direct access to representatives of each role is desirable, personas or proxies may be used when some groups are unavailable, so B is not mandatory.

Considering only end users neglects key stakeholders such as sponsors, regulators, support staff, operators or suppliers; this would miss important constraints and quality expectations, making C incorrect. Hence, the only correct statement is that all other options are wrong, as captured in D.

NEW QUESTION # 65

Your company works intensively with models in requirements engineering and uses UML for the description of models. Which three capabilities should a modeling tool possess in order to be able to create traceable models in the requirements engineering? (3 Points)

- A. Model elements can be linked via hyperlinks
- B. Every model element must possess an ID
- C. The models are checked for conformity with the UML definition
- D. The modeling tool creates reports suitable for management
- E. The model is exported in the XML format
- F. The model elements can be stored under version control

Answer: A,E,F

NEW QUESTION # 66

Choose the two most important quality criteria for a requirement.

- A. Unambiguous
- B. Complete
- C. Necessary
- D. Understandable
- E. Adequate

Answer: D,E

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

The CPRE handbook explicitly highlights adequate and understandable as the two most critical criteria for single requirements. A requirement that does not correctly reflect real stakeholder needs (not adequate) or that stakeholders cannot understand (not understandable) is useless or even harmful, regardless of how complete or unambiguous it might be. While necessary, complete and unambiguous are also valuable, they are secondary in importance. Therefore, when trade-offs are unavoidable, adequacy and understandability must be prioritized, making options A and B the correct choice.
