Answer: B

Explanation:

* Definition of a Risk Register

* A risk register is a key tool in risk management used to document, track, and manage risks throughout their lifecycle. It serves as a central repository for all identified risks, detailing their nature, status, and potential impact.

* Purpose of a Risk Register

* The primary purpose is to maintain a log of discovered risks. It provides a structured approach to risk documentation, ensuring that all risks are identified, recorded, and available for review and analysis.

* Risk descriptions.

* Risk owners.

* Likelihood and impact assessments.

* Mitigation measures and actions.

* A. Maintain a log of discovered risks: This is the correct answer. The risk register's main function is to act as a comprehensive inventory of risks, ensuring visibility and traceability across the organization.

* B. Track individual risk assessments: While the risk register may include information from risk assessments, its primary purpose is not to track these assessments individually but to log and manage risks holistically.

* C. Develop plans for mitigating identified risks: Risk mitigation plans are a separate output of the risk management process. The risk register may document these plans, but developing them is not its primary purpose.

* D. Coordinate the timing of scheduled risk assessments: Scheduling risk assessments is part of the broader risk management process, not the primary function of the risk register.
