Microsoft Implementing Analytics Solutions Using Microsoft Fabric Sample Questions (Q162-Q167):

NEW QUESTION # 162

You have a Fabric tenant that contains two workspaces named Workspace1 and Workspace2.

Workspace1 contains a lakehouse named Lakehouse1. Workspace2 contains a lakehouse named Lakehouse2. Lakehouse1 contains a table named dbo.Sales. Lakehouse2 contains a table named dbo.Customers.

You need to ensure that you can write queries that reference both dbo.Sales and dbo.Customers in the same SQL query without making additional copies of the tables.

What should you use?

- A. a view
- B. a managed table
- C. a shortcut
- D. a dataflow

Answer: C

Explanation:

You can not create view directly. you need to create shortcuts first to access table in different workspaces.

NEW QUESTION # 163

You have a Microsoft Fabric tenant that contains a dataflow.

You are exploring a new semantic model.

From Power Query, you need to view column information as shown in the following exhibit.

Which three Data view options should you select? Each correct answer presents part of the solution. NOTE: Each correct answer is worth one point.

- A. Show column profile in details pane
- B. Show column quality details
- C. Enable details pane
- D. Show column value distribution
- E. Enable column profile

Answer: B,C,E

Explanation:

To view column information like the one shown in the exhibit in Power Query, you need to select the options that enable profiling and display quality and distribution details. These are: A. Enable column profile - This option turns on profiling for each column, showing statistics such as distinct and unique values. B. Show column quality details - It displays the column quality bar on top of each column showing the percentage of valid, error, and empty values. E. Show column value distribution - It enables the histogram display of value distribution for each column, which visualizes how often each value occurs.

NEW QUESTION # 164

You have a Fabric tenant that contains a Microsoft Power BI report.

You are exploring a new semantic model.

You need to display the following column statistics:

- * Count
- * Average
- * Null count
- * Distinct count
- * Standard deviation

Which Power Query function should you run?

- A. Table.View
- B. Table.Schema
- C. Table.Profile
- D. Table.FuzzyGroup

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Table.Profile function in Power Query is used to generate column statistics such as count, average, null count, distinct count, and standard deviation. You can use this function as follows:

Invoke the Power Query Editor.

Apply the Table.Profile function to your table.

The result will be a table where each row represents a column from the original table, and each column in the result represents a different statistic such as those listed in the requirement.

NEW QUESTION # 165

You have a Fabric workspace named Workspace1 and an Azure SQL database.

You plan to create a dataflow that will read data from the database, and then transform the data by performing an inner join. You need to ignore spaces in the values when performing the inner join. The solution must minimize development effort. What should you do?

- A. Merge the queries by using a lookup table.
- B. Append the queries by using a lookup table.
- C. Append the queries by using fuzzy matching.
- D. Merge the queries by using fuzzy matching.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 166

You have a Fabric tenant that contains a semantic model named Model1. Model1 uses Import mode. Model1 contains a table named Orders. Orders has 100 million rows and the following fields.

Name	Data type	Description
OrderId	Integer	Column imported from the source
OrderDateTime	Date/time	Column imported from the source
Quantity	Integer	Column imported from the source
Price	Decimal	Column imported from the source
TotalSalesAmount	Decimal	Calculated column that multiplies Quantity and Price
TotalQuantity	Integer	Measure

You need to reduce the memory used by Model1 and the time it takes to refresh the model. Which two actions should you perform? Each correct answer presents part of the solution. NOTE: Each correct answer is worth one point.

- A. Replace TotalQuantity with a calculated column.
- B. Convert Quantity into the Text data type.
- C. Split OrderDateTime into separate date and time columns.
- D. Replace TotalSalesAmount with a measure.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

To reduce memory usage and refresh time, splitting the OrderDateTime into separate date and time columns (A) can help optimize the model because date/time data types can be more memory-intensive than separate date and time columns. Moreover, replacing TotalSalesAmount with a measure (D) instead of a calculated column ensures that the calculation is performed at query time, which can reduce the size of the model as the value is not stored but calculated on the fly. References = The best practices for optimizing Power BI models are detailed in the Power BI documentation, which recommends using measures for calculations that don't need to be stored and adjusting data types to improve performance.
