Proofpoint Certified Threat Protection Analyst Exam Sample Questions (Q39-Q44):

NEW QUESTION # 39

As a new analyst, you need to review threat intelligence related to threats in your environment. Which Proofpoint product provides this data?

- A. Proofpoint on Demand (PoD)
- B. Proofpoint TAP Dashboard
- C. Proofpoint Smart Search
- D. Proofpoint TRAP

Answer: B

Explanation:

Proofpoint TAP Dashboard is the primary interface for threat intelligence and threat context about attacks observed against your organization (C). In IR practice, TAP provides threat-level enrichment such as threat type (credential phishing, malware, BEC/impostor), campaign clustering, indicators (URLs, domains, attachment hashes), and exposure/interaction telemetry (Intended, At Risk, Impacted, clicks). This is the data analysts use to prioritize investigations, identify related messages, and determine whether a threat is isolated or part of a broader campaign. By contrast, PoD (Email Protection) is the mail security administration and policy layer; it enforces gateway decisions but is not the main threat intel workbench. Smart Search is a message trace tool focused on tracking messages and dispositions rather than threat intelligence aggregation and campaign analytics. TRAP is the post-delivery remediation capability (quarantine/pull/orchestration) rather than the system that provides consolidated threat intelligence views. For Proofpoint-focused detection and analysis, TAP is the investigative hub that connects threat research, verdicts, and user exposure into a single operational picture.

NEW QUESTION # 40

An attacker registers a domain like "great-company.com" to impersonate "greatcompany.com." What tactic is being used?

- A. Subdomain Takeover
- B. Domain Hijacking
- C. Lookalike Domain
- D. Display Name Spoofing

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 41

Why do some domains generate a warning when they are added to the custom blocklist in TAP?

- A. Because they are already blocked and restricted by default in the network system.
- B. Because they are less popular and low-risk domains that do not pose a threat.
- C. Because they are already blocked by other security measures, such as IPS and firewall.
- D. Because entire domains of popular and prominent services on the web should not be blocked.

Answer: D

Explanation:

TAP URL Defense custom blocklists can accept domain-based entries, but Proofpoint warns when you attempt to block domains that are widely used by legitimate services (D). Blocking an entire "popular /prominent" domain (or a broad wildcard that matches it) can cause major business disruption: break SaaS access, block legitimate customer/vendor communications, and generate a flood of user tickets-ultimately harming containment efforts by forcing emergency rollback. In Proofpoint-focused IR, the safest containment approach is precision: block the specific malicious domain, subdomain, or path pattern when supported, and avoid blanket blocks that collide with common web platforms (cloud storage, URL shorteners, collaboration tools). The warning is a guardrail to prevent overly broad mitigations that create operational outages while providing limited security benefit (attackers can shift infrastructure quickly). When a threat leverages a legitimate platform, IR teams typically prefer tighter controls: block the exact malicious host, apply time-of-click blocking, use isolation/safe browsing controls, and hunt/pull the related emails rather than blocking the entire service domain.

NEW QUESTION # 42

Which TAP condemnation results from an analysis of emails submitted via Proofpoint ZenGuide Report Suspicious (formerly PhishAlarm)?

- A. Proofpoint Threat Analyst
- B. End User via CLEAR
- C. Anomalous Traffic Detection
- D. Customer Administrator via Blocklist

Answer: A

Explanation:

Emails submitted through ZenGuide "Report Suspicious" (PhishAlarm) enter a workflow where Proofpoint performs analysis and can apply an analyst-driven verdict, commonly reflected as a "Proofpoint Threat Analyst" condemnation. This matters in IR because user-reported messages are a major signal source for early detection-often before automated detections fully classify a campaign, especially for fast-flux phishing infrastructure or novel lures. Proofpoint's analyst verdict provides a higher-confidence classification that can drive downstream actions such as campaign correlation, threat labeling, and remediation recommendations (blocking URLs/domains, searching for related messages, and pulling delivered copies via TRAP/Cloud Threat Response). In a SOC workflow, the condemnation source is important for auditability: it clarifies whether the disposition came from automated engines (sandbox/reputation), a customer policy, end-user feedback alone, or Proofpoint human analysis. Treating these submissions properly improves detection coverage and reduces dwell time because a single user report can trigger organization-wide scoping and cleanup. It also supports post-incident improvement by identifying detection gaps (why it wasn't auto-detected sooner) and tuning controls to catch similar messages earlier in the delivery pipeline.

NEW QUESTION # 43

Which two threat protection capabilities are available as part of Proofpoint's Targeted Attack Protection (TAP)? (Select two.)

- A. Protects users against threats in email attachments
- B. Provides protection against URL-based email threats
- C. Cloud-based solution that remediates threats post-delivery
- D. Training solution that drives user behavioral change
- E. Pulls malicious emails from user inbox after delivery

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

TAP is Proofpoint's detection and analysis layer for advanced email threats, with core capabilities focused on URL-based threats and attachment-based threats. URL Defense (C) rewrites links and performs time-of-click analysis to block newly malicious destinations and provide click telemetry for investigations. Attachment Defense (E) analyzes file payloads (including sandbox/detonation and static reputation approaches depending on configuration) to detect malware and suspicious content that may evade traditional gateway signatures.

These two capabilities are central to TAP's role in detection and analysis: they generate verdicts, campaign clustering, and exposure metrics (Intended/At Risk/Impacted) used by SOC teams to prioritize response. Post-delivery remediation ("pull from inbox" or "remediate post-delivery") is not TAP's primary function; that is typically handled by TRAP/Cloud Threat Response capabilities (A/D). User training is handled by Proofpoint Security Awareness/ZenGuide solutions (B), which complement TAP by reducing click rates and improving reporting, but are not TAP threat protection capabilities. TAP's value in IR is turning email threat content (URLs/attachments) into actionable, scoped, measurable incidents.
