NEW QUESTION # 143

Milk, pure water, lemon juice, and gastric juice were tested using a pH meter. Results are summarized in the chart below.

Substance | pH

Milk | 6.8

Pure water | 7

Lemon juice | 2

Gastric juice | 1

Which substance is the most acidic?

- A. Gastric juice
- B. Lemon juice
- C. Pure water
- D. Milk

Answer: A

Explanation:

The pH scale measures acidity and alkalinity, ranging from 0 to 14. Lower pH values indicate higher acidity, while higher pH values indicate greater alkalinity. A pH of 7 is considered neutral. In the chart provided, gastric juice has a pH of 1, which is the lowest value listed, making it the most acidic substance. Lemon juice, with a pH of 2, is also acidic but less so than gastric juice. Milk is slightly acidic, and pure water is neutral.

Gastric juice contains hydrochloric acid, which aids digestion and destroys harmful microorganisms in the stomach. The NEX Science exam frequently tests understanding of the pH scale and its physiological relevance, particularly in digestive processes.

NEW QUESTION # 144

A recipe for pancakes serves 4 people and requires 1.5 cups of flour.

If the cook wants to make enough pancakes to serve 8 people, how much flour is needed?

- A. 1.5 cups
- B. 5.5 cups
- C. 8 cups
- D. 3 cups

Answer: D

Explanation:

This is a proportional reasoning problem. If 4 people require 1.5 cups of flour, then doubling the number of people to 8 means doubling the amount of flour. Multiply 1.5 by 2:

$$1.5 \times 2 = 3 \text{ cups.}$$

Therefore, option D is correct. Option A is the original amount, not scaled. Option B greatly overestimates the amount. Option C results from incorrect multiplication. The NEX frequently includes scaling problems related to recipes, dosages, and supplies, so identifying when to multiply or divide is essential.

NEW QUESTION # 145

Reading Comprehension

Passage:

Antibiotics are effective against bacterial infections but do not work against viruses. Misuse of antibiotics can contribute to antibiotic resistance, making infections harder to treat.

What is the primary purpose of the passage?

- A. To describe immune system disorders
- B. To explain how viruses reproduce
- C. To promote antibiotic use for all illnesses
- D. To inform about proper antibiotic use

Answer: D

Explanation:

The passage explains what antibiotics treat, what they do not treat, and the consequences of misuse. Its purpose is informational, focusing on responsible use to prevent resistance. Option C best captures this purpose. The other options either misrepresent or ignore the main focus. Purpose questions on the NEX often test whether the reader understands why the passage was written.
