Splunk Core Certified Advanced Power User Sample Questions (Q123-Q128):

NEW QUESTION # 123

When possible, what is the best choice for summarizing data to improve search performance?

- A. Summary indexing
- B. Data model acceleration
- C. Report acceleration
- D. Use the fieldsummary command.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 124

When possible, what is the best choice for summarizing data to improve search performance?

- A. Summary indexing
- B. Data model acceleration
- C. Report acceleration
- D. Use the fieldsummary command.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Summary indexing is the most effective method for summarizing data to improve search performance. It stores precomputed results, allowing faster retrieval and processing compared to running the same search repeatedly.

NEW QUESTION # 125

What does it mean when a command is run and the is_exact column is 0?

- A. The distinct count of values for that field is exact.
- B. The distinct count of values for that field is exactly 0.
- C. The distinct count of values in that field is approximated.
- D. The distinct count of fields in the field summary is 1.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Splunk, the is_exact field indicates whether the count of distinct values for a particular field is exact or estimated. A value of * 1 means the count is exact.

* 0 means the count is an approximation.

Therefore, when is_exact is 0, it signifies that the distinct count of values for that field is an estimate, not an exact count.

NEW QUESTION # 126

When and where do search debug messages appear to help with troubleshooting views?

- A. In the Dashboard Editor, after the search completes.
- B. In the Dashboard Editor, while the search is running.
- C. In the Search Job Inspector, after the search completes.
- D. In the Search Job Inspector, while the search is running.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Search debug messages appear in the Search Job Inspector while the search is running. This tool provides detailed insights into search performance and potential issues, making it helpful for troubleshooting.

NEW QUESTION # 127

Which command is the opposite of `untable`?

- A. `bin`
- B. `table`
- C. `xyseries`
- D. `chart`

Answer: D

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Step by Step Explanation: The `untable` command in Splunk converts tabular data (rows and columns) into a format where each row represents a key-value pair. Its opposite is the `chart` command, which aggregates data into a tabular format with rows and columns.

Here's why `chart` is the opposite of `untable`:

* `untable`: This command takes structured data (e.g., a table with columns A,B,C) and transforms it into a long format where each row contains a key-value pair (e.g., `field,value`).

* `chart`: This command aggregates data into a structured table format, grouping data by specified fields and calculating statistics (e.g., count, sum).

Example: Using `untable`:

spl

Copy

1

```
| untable _time field value

This converts a table into key-value pairs.

Using `chart`:

spl
```

Copy

```
1

| chart count by field

This aggregates data into a structured table.

Other options explained:

* Option B: Incorrect because `tables` simply selects specific fields for display but does not aggregate data like `chart`.

* Option C: Incorrect because `bin` is used for bucketing numeric or time-based data, not for creating tables.

* Option D: Incorrect because `xyseries` transforms data into a series format but does not directly reverse the effect of `untable`.
