ServiceNow Certified Application Developer-ServiceNow Sample Questions (Q162-Q167):

NEW QUESTION # 162

What is a benefit of creating an Application Properties page for each application?

- A. Acts as a central landing page for the application
- B. Developers or admins can adjust behavior without altering artifacts
- C. Developers can override inherited application properties
- D. Users can modify the appearance of the application

Answer: B

Explanation:

Application Properties let developers expose configurable values (via system properties), so behavior can be changed without altering code.

From Development Handbook 4.0.4, p. 167:

"Use application properties to enable or disable features or change behavior without modifying scripts directly. This promotes modularity and flexibility."

NEW QUESTION # 163

To see what scripts, reports, and other application artifacts will be in a published application:

- A. Open the artifact records individually to verify the value in the Application field
- B. Enter the name of the Application in the Global search field
- C. Examine the Application Files Related List in the application to be published
- D. Open the list of Update Sets for the instance

Answer: D

Explanation:

To see what scripts, reports, and other application artifacts will be in a published application, the best option is to examine the Application Files Related List in the application to be published. This will show all the application files that belong to the application, grouped by file type and scope. You can also filter, sort, or search the list to find specific files.

The following options are not the best ways to see what application artifacts will be in a published application:

* Enter the name of the Application in the Global search field. This will perform a global text search on the instance and return any records that match the application name, which may include irrelevant or incomplete results.

* Open the list of Update Sets for the instance. This will show all the update sets that have been created or imported on the instance, but not necessarily the ones that belong to the application to be published.

Update sets are used to move customizations between instances, not to publish applications to the ServiceNow Store or Share.

* Open the artifact records individually to verify the value in the Application field. This will require opening each record that may be part of the application and checking the Application field, which is tedious and error-prone. References: Publish an Application, Application Files

Identify characteristic(s) of a Record Producer. (Choose 3 answers)

- A. Graphics can be included on the user interface.
- B. Each field prompts the user with a question rather than a field label.
- C. You can script behaviors of fields in the user interface.

- D. All records created using this strategy are inserted into the Requested Item [sc_req_item] table.
- E. They must be scripted.

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

A Record Producer in ServiceNow is a specific type of catalog item that enables users to create records in a particular table through a simplified interface. They are often used to allow users to create task-based records, such as incidents or change requests, from the Service Catalog.

servicenow.com

Key characteristics of Record Producers include:

* Graphics can be included on the user interface: Developers can enhance the user experience by adding images or icons to the Record Producer form, making it more intuitive and visually appealing.

* Each field prompts the user with a question rather than a field label: Instead of standard field labels, Record Producers can present fields as questions to guide users in providing the necessary information.

This approach makes the form more user-friendly and context-specific.

* You can script behaviors of fields in the user interface: Developers have the flexibility to add client-side scripts to control the behavior of fields on the Record Producer form. This capability allows for dynamic interactions, such as showing or hiding fields based on user input or pre-populating fields with specific data.

Option A is incorrect because records created by a Record Producer are inserted into the table specified during its configuration, not necessarily the Requested Item [sc_req_item] table. Option C is incorrect because scripting is not mandatory for Record Producers; they can function without additional scripting, although scripting can be used to enhance functionality when needed.
