NEW QUESTION # 162

Why must business analysis information packages be prepared?

- A. To plan tasks for the week
- B. To determine the stakeholder engagement approach
- C. To determine the information management approach
- D. To facilitate reviews and approvals

Answer: D

Explanation:

Business analysis information packages are prepared to facilitate reviews and approvals. These packages compile essential information in a structured format, making it easier for stakeholders to review the content and provide feedback or approval. This ensures that all relevant information is considered and that decisions are made based on a comprehensive understanding of the issues, requirements, and proposed solutions. Effective preparation of these packages helps streamline the review process and supports better decision-making.

NEW QUESTION # 163

Establishing the design option that is appropriate to meet the enterprise's requirements is the purpose of which task?

- A. Specify and model requirements
- B. Analyze potential value and recommend solution
- C. Define requirements architecture
- D. Define design options

Answer: D

Explanation:

The task of defining design options involves identifying, exploring, and describing different ways of meeting the business need. This includes defining the solution approach, identifying opportunities to improve the business, allocating requirements across solution components, and representing design options that achieve the desired future state. It is about considering various possibilities that could be created (building), purchased (buying), or a combination of both, to satisfy the business need. Reference: The information is based on the BABOK Guide, specifically the section on 'Define Design Options' which outlines the purpose and activities involved in this task¹².
