Which technique involves prompting the Large Language Model (LLM) to emit intermediate reasoning steps as part of its response?

- A. Least to most Prompting
- B. Step-Bock Prompting
- C. In context Learning
- D. Chain-of-Through

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 24

Which is NOT a typical use case for LangSmith Evaluators?

- A. Evaluating factual accuracy of outputs
- B. Measuring coherence of generated text
- C. Aliening code readability
- D. Detecting bias or toxicity

Answer: C

Explanation:

NEW QUESTION # 25

Given the following code: `chain = prompt | llm`

- A. Which statement is true about LangChain Expression language (LCEL)?
- B. LCEL is a programming language used to write documentation for LangChain.
- C. LCEL is a declarative and preferred way to compose chains together.
- D. LCEL is a legacy method for creating chains in LangChain

Answer: C

Explanation:

LangChain Expression Language (LCEL) is a declarative language used to compose chains together in LangChain. It allows users to define the flow and interaction of different components in a clear and concise manner. By using LCEL, developers can easily specify how prompts, models, and other elements should interact, making the process of creating and managing chains more straightforward and efficient. This method is preferred due to its readability and ease of use, compared to more imperative or programmatic approaches.

NEW QUESTION # 26

How are documents usually evaluated in the simplest form of keyword-based search?

- A. Based on the presence and frequency of the user-provided keywords
- B. According to the length of the documents
- C. Based on the number of images and videos contained in the documents

- D. By the complexity of language used in the documents

Answer: A

Explanation:

In the simplest form of keyword-based search, documents are evaluated based on keyword matching and term frequency. This approach does not account for context, semantics, or the meaning behind the words, but rather focuses on:

Presence of Keywords - If a document contains the search term, it is considered relevant.

Term Frequency (TF) - The more a keyword appears in a document, the higher the ranking in basic search algorithms.

Inverse Document Frequency (IDF) - Words that are common across many documents (e.g., "the," "is") are given less weight, while rare words are prioritized.

Boolean Matching - Some basic search engines support logical operators like AND, OR, and NOT to refine keyword searches.

Exact Match vs. Partial Match - Some systems prioritize exact keyword matches, while others allow partial or fuzzy matches.

□ Oracle Generative AI Reference:

Oracle has implemented semantic search and advanced AI-driven document search techniques in its cloud solutions, but traditional keyword-based search still forms the foundation of many enterprise search mechanisms.

NEW QUESTION # 27

Which is a key characteristic of the annotation process used in T-Few fine-tuning?

- A. T-Few fine-tuning requires manual annotation of input-output pairs.
- B. T-Few fine-tuning relies on unsupervised learning techniques for annotation.
- C. T-Few fine-tuning involves updating the weights of all layers in the model.
- D. T-Few fine-tuning uses annotated data to adjust a fraction of model weights.
