Which of the following sample categories can be maintained in the sample-drawing item? Note: There are 3 correct answers to this question.

- A. Pooled sample
- B. Primary sample
- C. Reserve sample
- D. Sample for storage condition
- E. Initial sample

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

Sample-drawing items in the sample-drawing procedure (transaction QPV2) define sample categories:

* Reserve Sample (A): A standard category for samples retained for future testing (e.g., stability), maintained in the procedure.

* Pooled Sample (B): Represents combined samples for collective testing, a defined category in sample management.

* Primary Sample (D): The initial sample taken for immediate inspection, a core category in the procedure.

* Initial Sample (C): Not a distinct category; overlaps with "Primary sample."

* Sample for Storage Condition (E): Not a standard category; storage conditions are attributes, not sample types.
