Nutanix Certified Associate (NCA) v6.5 exam Sample Questions (Q28-Q33):

NEW QUESTION # 28

Which storage protocol is used to attach a container to an ESXi host?

- A. CIFS
- B. SMB
- C. FCoE
- D. NFS

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 29

Which tool provides diagnostic system data for Nutanix to deliver proactive support? (Choose Correct answer and give explanation/References from Nutanix Certified Associate (NCA) v6.5 official study resources)

- A. Cluster health
- B. Pulse
- C. NCC
- D. Cluster Heart

Answer: B

Explanation:

Pulse is a built-in tool that periodically collects and sends diagnostic data to Nutanix support for proactive monitoring and troubleshooting. This data includes cluster configuration, performance metrics, and error logs, among other things. Nutanix support can use this data to identify and resolve issues before they become critical, and to provide recommendations for optimizing cluster performance.

NCC (Nutanix Cluster Check) is another tool provided by Nutanix, but it is used for performing manual health checks and diagnostics on the cluster, rather than providing proactive support.

Cluster Heart and Cluster Health are not tools provided by Nutanix, and are not relevant to this question.

NEW QUESTION # 30

When should Pulse be disabled?

- A. Only under the guidance of Nutanix Support.
- B. Before any cluster maintenance activities requiring node reboots.
- C. When the cluster is deployed in 3 dark-site.
- D. When the cluster is connected to the Internet with less than 1GbE.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Pulse should only be disabled under the guidance of Nutanix Support and not for any other reason. Pulse is a feature of the Nutanix cluster that enables the cluster to report back health and performance data to Nutanix for troubleshooting and performance optimization purposes. Disabling Pulse without the guidance of Nutanix Support is not recommended, as it could lead to potential issues with the cluster. NEW QUESTION # 31

Which VM-level feature ensures continuous availability of data?

- A. Deduplication
- B. Data Protection
- C. Replication Factor
- D. Data Locality

Answer: B

Data Protection is a feature that ensures that data stored on a VM is protected against data loss in the event of hardware failure, data corruption, or other unexpected events. It typically includes features such as snapshots, replication, and backup, which enable administrators to create multiple copies of data and store them in different locations to provide redundancy and ensure availability. Replication Factor is a related concept, but it is not a VM-level feature in and of itself. Replication Factor is a setting that can be configured at the storage level to determine how many copies of data are stored on different nodes in a distributed storage system. Data Locality and Deduplication are also related concepts, but they do not directly ensure continuous availability of data.

What is the maximum jumbo frame MTU supported by host network interfaces and Guest VMs?
