Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q31-Q36):

NEW QUESTION # 31

Northern Trail Outfitters (NTO) wants to migrate its online shop from a custom ecommerce platform to B2C Commerce. NTO needs to migrate several thousands of customer records (profile information, address book). WTO can provide a B2C Commerce feed. It is currently using SHA-256 as an encryption mechanism for the customer passwords.

What approach can the Architect propose?

- A. Import the customer records, with the hashed password as a custom attribute, and during the login compare the entered password with the hashed password and save it in the password field.
- B. Import the customer records, including the hashed password, as B2C Commerce supports SHA-256, and they will be able to login with their existing password.
- C. Import the customer records, excluding the password field, and B2C Commerce will automatically require a password reset the first time a customer logs in to the storefront.
- D. Do not import customer records and asks customers to create new accounts the first time they try to log in to the B2C Commerce storefront.

Answer: C

Explanation:

B2C Commerce does not directly support the import of hashed passwords for use in authentication due to security protocols and the platform's password management system. The best approach is to import customer records without the password field. Upon their first login attempt on the new system, customers would be prompted to reset their password. This method ensures that password security is maintained according to B2C Commerce standards and that customer data remains secure during the transition from the old platform.

NEW QUESTION # 32

A client has just pushed a new site live to Production. However during smoke testing, it's found that some customers are not seeing the correct pricing on the Product Detail Page.

What three places would the Architect begin to look for the cause of this issue?

Choose 3 answers

- A. Check the Global Preferences to be sure the settings are correct.
- B. Check that the cache is set correctly
- C. Check Log Center
- D. Check the Quota Status page.
- E. Check that there was not an error during replication.

Answer: A,B,E

Explanation:

To resolve issues where some customers are not seeing the correct pricing on the Product Detail Page, the following places should be examined:

* Global Preferences (C): It's critical to check the global preferences settings to ensure they align with the intended pricing strategy and configurations. This includes checking currency settings, pricing rules, and tax configurations, which can all influence the pricing displayed to customers.

* Error during replication (D): If there were errors during data replication, this could lead to inconsistencies such as incorrect pricing being shown. Ensuring that data has been replicated correctly and without errors is essential, particularly when moving from staging to production environments.

* Cache settings (E): Incorrect cache settings or outdated cached data can cause old or incorrect pricing to be displayed. Clearing the cache or verifying that cache invalidation rules are correctly set can resolve such issues.

These steps are critical for ensuring that the displayed pricing is accurate and consistent, providing a seamless user experience.

NEW QUESTION # 33

The Client has just acquired a new brand and wants to integrate the new brand's current ecommerce site into a current realm as a new site. The acquisition has its own Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system for product data and inventory. The new site will use the existing realm's Order Management System (OHS) and Customer Relationship Management (CRM) system.

What two requirements does the Architect need to keep in mind when creating the technical specification document?

Choose 2 answers

- A. A new product import job must be created to manage products.
- B. A new order export job must be created to export orders.

- C. A new inventory Import Job must be created to manage inventory.
- D. A new customer export Job must be created to export customers.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

When integrating a new brand's ecommerce site into an existing realm, the architect needs to ensure that product data and inventory from the new brand's Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system are correctly managed within the realm. Therefore, creating new import jobs for products (Answer B) and inventory (Answer C) is essential. These import jobs will facilitate the synchronization of the new brand's product catalog and inventory levels with the existing Order Management System (OMS) and Customer Relationship Management (CRM) systems of the realm. Such integration is crucial for maintaining up-to-date product and inventory information across the systems, ensuring seamless operations and data consistency.

- A. Wait 15 minutes after the recreation process completes for the cache to clear automatically.
- B. Use the undo replication process to roll back to the previous replication if necessary.

- D. Use the undo replication process to roll back code replications only, not data replications.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

- * Option A (Use the undo replication process to roll back to the previous replication if necessary):

This best practice ensures that if a replication introduces errors or issues, there is a way to quickly revert to a previous state without impacting the ongoing operations of the commerce site.

- * Option C (Use the undo replication process to roll back code replications only, not data replications): Focusing undo operations on code replication rather than data ensures that functional issues caused by code changes can be quickly addressed without
