SAP S/4HANA Cloud Private Edition - Production Planning and Manufacturing Sample Questions (Q59-Q64):

NEW QUESTION # 59

What does a line hierarchy in repetitive manufacturing represent?

- A. A production line with a parallel sequence in the routing
- B. A production line with an alternative sequence in the routing
- C. A production line with prioritized alternative work centers
- D. A production line with more than one work center

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 60

Under what circumstances can you change the material type for a material if stocks, reservations, or purchasing documents exist?

Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. The quantity and value updates are the same
- B. The same account category is used
- C. The same base unit of measure is used.
- D. The same batch management level is used

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

You can change the material type for a material if stocks, reservations, or purchasing documents exist only if the following conditions are met:

The same base unit of measure is used. This ensures that the material quantity is consistent across different material types.

The quantity and value updates are the same. This ensures that the material valuation is consistent across different material types.

The material is not subject to split valuation. This ensures that the material has only one valuation class and price control. Reference:

NEW QUESTION # 61

Where do you maintain the work center that represents the production line for repetitive manufacturing? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Routing
- B. Repetitive manufacturing profile
- C. Production cost collector
- D. Production version

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 62

What data can you maintain in the subitems of a bill of material (BOM)?

Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Item type
- B. Installation point
- C. Scrap percentage
- D. Quantity

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

The subitems of a bill of material (BOM) are the components that make up the product or assembly. You can maintain the following data for each subitem:

Quantity: This is the number of units of the component that are required for one unit of the product or assembly. You can specify the quantity in different units of measure, such as base unit, order unit, or alternative unit. You can also use variable quantities, such as percentages or formulas, to calculate the quantity dynamically based on the product or assembly characteristics.

Scrap percentage: This is the percentage of the component that is expected to be wasted or lost during the production or assembly process. You can specify the scrap percentage for each component to adjust the quantity accordingly. For example, if the quantity of a component is 10 and the scrap percentage is 5%, the system will increase the quantity by 0.5 to account for the scrap.

The installation point (A) and the item type (B) are not data that you can maintain in the subitems of a BOM. The installation point is a field in the equipment master record that indicates where the equipment is installed. The item type is a field in the sales document item that determines the processing and pricing of the item. These fields are not relevant for the BOM subitems. Reference:

NEW QUESTION # 63

In documentation for MRP in Advanced Planning you read that new orders are created through infinite planning. What does this mean for the capacity requirements of a new order?

- A. MRP creates the capacity requirements without considering existing load on the work centers.
- B. MRP assigns the capacity requirements automatically after the last scheduled operation for each work center.
- C. MRP creates the capacity requirements at the earliest possible time.
- D. MRP assigns the capacity requirements automatically to work centers with the earliest available capacity.

Answer: A

Explanation:

In SAP S/4HANA Advanced Planning (PP/DS - Production Planning and Detailed Scheduling), infinite planning assumes unlimited capacity availability during the initial planning phase. When the documentation states that "new orders are created through infinite planning," it means that MRP generates planned orders without checking the existing capacity load on work centers. Thus, MRP creates the capacity requirements without considering existing load on the work centers (B). This approach prioritizes material availability and scheduling over capacity constraints, leaving capacity leveling to a subsequent step (e.g., using heuristics or manual adjustments in PP/DS).

Option A is incorrect because infinite planning does not sequence capacity requirements after the last operation; it ignores capacity entirely. Option C is not accurate, as "earliest possible time" implies a finite scheduling logic, which contradicts infinite planning. Option D is also incorrect, as infinite planning does not consider available capacity for assignment. This is consistent with SAP's PP/DS documentation, where infinite planning is a preliminary step before finite scheduling.
