Construction Specifications Institute Construction Documents Technologist Sample Questions (Q63-Q68):

NEW QUESTION # 63

Which of the following elements should be included in Supplementary Conditions?

- A. Equal employment opportunity requirements
- B. Claims and dispute resolution requirements
- C. Termination of the work by owner or contractor
- D. Requirements for a schedule of values

Answer: A

Explanation:

CSI organizes the contract documents into a logical hierarchy:

* General Conditions - Standard baseline clauses on rights, responsibilities, procedures (e.g., claims, dispute resolution, termination, payments, schedule of values reference).

* Supplementary Conditions - Project-specific modifications or additions to the General Conditions, often driven by laws, funding requirements, or owner policies.

* Division 01 - General Requirements - Administrative and procedural requirements specific to the project (submittals, schedule of values procedures, temporary facilities, etc.), coordinated with the Conditions of the Contract.

CSI's guidance (as used for CDT) explains that Supplementary Conditions are the place to add or modify contract conditions to comply with local laws, regulations, and owner requirements that go beyond or differ from the standard General Conditions. Typical items include:

- * Project-specific insurance requirements and limits,
- * Local wage requirements,
- * Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) and affirmative action provisions,

* Special regulatory or funding-agency conditions.

Therefore, Equal Employment Opportunity requirements belong properly in Supplementary Conditions, making Option C the CSI-consistent answer.

Why the others are incorrect in CSI's structure:

* A. Requirements for a schedule of values CSI places the detailed procedures and requirements for the schedule of values in Division 01 - General Requirements, not in the Supplementary Conditions.

The General Conditions may mention the schedule of values at a high level, but the "how to" (formats, breakdown, submission procedures) belongs in Division 01, not Supplementary Conditions.

* B. Claims and dispute resolution requirements Standard claims and dispute resolution clauses are part of the General Conditions (for example, notice requirements, initial decision-maker roles, mediation/arbitration steps). Supplementary Conditions may modify certain aspects if needed, but the base provisions themselves are not created there; they originate in the General Conditions.

* D. Termination of the work by owner or contractor Termination rights (for cause or for convenience) and their procedures are fundamental contract provisions that belong in the General Conditions. Like claims, they can be adjusted in Supplementary Conditions, but the primary termination clauses are part of the standard General Conditions text, not something you "include" first in Supplementary Conditions.

Key CSI-aligned references (no links):

* CSI Construction Specifications Practice Guide - chapters on the Conditions of the Contract and the roles of General and Supplementary Conditions.

* CSI CDT Body of Knowledge - organization of the Project Manual and correct placement of Division 01, General Conditions, and Supplementary Conditions content.

NEW QUESTION # 64

What activity helps the owner assess the viability of a project, evaluate financial resources, and understand the project's potential impact on the community?

- A. Schematic programming
- B. Master planning
- C. Due diligence investigation
- D. Site selection

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 65

What could a reference standard specification be based upon?

- A. Trade association standard
- B. Manufacturer's specification section
- C. Design intent
- D. Project manual for similar project

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 66

Which of the following terms describes the process of allocating resources for the continued performance of a building's intended function?

- A. Budgeting
- B. Facility management
- C. Commissioning
- D. Project closeout

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 67

To obtain progress payments, the contractor must submit an application for payment itemized in accordance with what?

- A. The construction schedule
- B. The percentage of completion
- C. The subcontractor's invoices
- D. The schedule of values

Answer: D

Explanation:

CSI describes the schedule of values as the breakdown of the contract sum allocated to portions of the work (often by specification section, building system, or major components). It is used as the basis for reviewing progress payments.

In CSI-aligned practice:

- * Before the first application for payment, the contractor submits a schedule of values to the A/E for review.
- * Each line item represents a portion of the work with an assigned dollar amount.
- * Every application for payment is itemized against that schedule-showing the percentage complete and corresponding dollar amount for each item.

Thus, the contractor's application is organized and itemized in accordance with the schedule of values, enabling the A/E and owner to evaluate progress in a consistent, transparent way. That matches Option C.

Why the others are incomplete or incorrect in this context:

- * A. The construction schedule - The construction schedule shows time and sequencing, not the cost breakdown used to itemize payment requests.
- * B. The subcontractor's invoices - These may support the contractor's internal accounting but do not define how the application for payment must be structured for the owner.
- * D. The percentage of completion - Percentage of completion is important, but it is applied to each line item in the schedule of values. The question asks what the application must be itemized in accordance with, which is the schedule of values, not just percentages.

CSI-aligned references (no URLs):

- * CSI Project Delivery Practice Guide - sections on construction phase payment procedures.
- * CSI CDT Body of Knowledge - payment applications and use of schedule of values.
- * Standard conditions of the contract as discussed in CSI materials - provisions on progress payments.
