NEW QUESTION # 32

Your organization has a Microsoft 365 subscription.

You create a security group named Group1 and assign a Microsoft 365 E3 license to the group.

You discover that a user named User1 does NOT have access to the Microsoft 365 E3 features.

You need to ensure that User1 can access all the Microsoft 365 E3 features.

Which two actions can you perform? Each correct answer presents a complete solution.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

- A. Assign a Conditional Access policy to Group1.
- B. Add User1 to Group1.
- C. Assign a Conditional Access policy to User1.
- D. Assign a license to User1.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

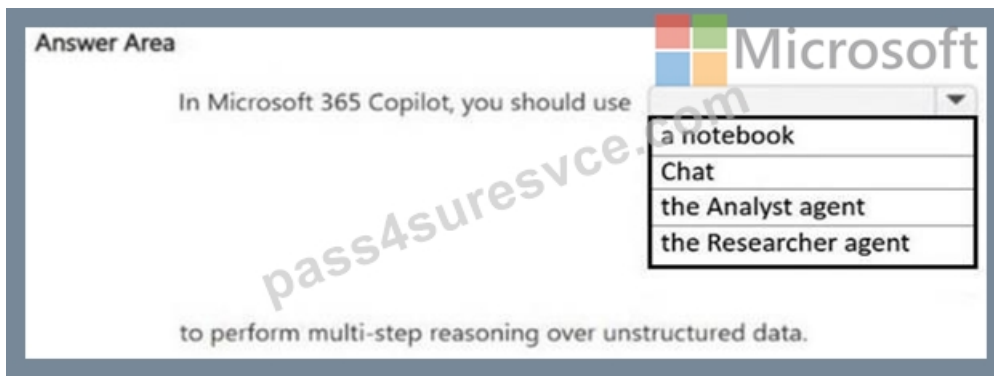

The correct answers are A and D. Microsoft documents that with group-based licensing, licenses assigned to a group are automatically inherited by the group's members. Therefore, if User1 is added to Group1, User1 can receive the Microsoft 365 E3 license through group membership. Microsoft also documents that licenses can be assigned directly to individual users, so assigning a Microsoft 365 E3 license straight to User1 is also a complete solution.

Options B and C are incorrect because Conditional Access controls how users access cloud resources after sign-in; it does not grant product entitlements or service licenses. Microsoft licensing guidance separates access-policy controls from actual license assignment. In this scenario, the issue is lack of license entitlement, not access conditions. As a result, the valid solutions are either to make User1 a member of the licensed group or to assign the license directly to User1. Microsoft also notes that group-based licensing assignment can fail if required user properties such as usage location are missing, but among the available answer choices, the two complete license-granting actions are Add User1 to Group1 and Assign a license to User1.

NEW QUESTION # 34

Your organization has a Microsoft 365 subscription.

Which two tasks can you perform by using the Exchange admin center? Each correct answer presents part of the solution.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

- A. Create a shared mailbox.
- B. Create a mail flow rule.
- C. Assign a Microsoft Exchange license.
- D. Add a custom domain.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

The correct answers are A and D because both tasks are supported directly in the Exchange admin center (EAC). Microsoft Learn states that administrators can manage mail flow rules in Exchange Online from the EAC under Mail flow > Rules, which includes creating and managing transport rules for organizational email handling. Microsoft Learn also states that administrators can create shared mailboxes in the EAC under Recipients > Mailboxes, where a shared mailbox can be added and then delegated to users. Option B is incorrect because adding a custom domain is normally done in the Microsoft 365 admin center, specifically on the Domains page. Although Exchange can later work with accepted domains and related mail flow settings, the act of adding and verifying a custom domain is not an Exchange admin center task. Option C is incorrect because license assignment is handled through Microsoft 365 or Microsoft Entra administrative tools, not the Exchange admin center.
