CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 2 Sample Questions (Q16-Q21):

NEW QUESTION # 16

A technician must map a network drive on a piece of legacy equipment running an end-of-life OS. Which of the following is the best script to map the drive using simple Windows commands?

- A. VB
- B. Batch
- C. Shell
- D. Java

Answer: B

Explanation:

A batch script is the best choice for mapping a network drive using simple Windows commands because it can execute command-line instructions like net use in legacy and modern Windows environments.

NEW QUESTION # 17

Which of the following Microsoft Windows versions would most likely be installed on a server?

- A. Windows 10 Enterprise
- B. Windows 22H2
- C. Windows 11 Pro
- D. Windows Server 2022

Answer: D

Explanation:

The correct answer is C. Windows Server 2022, because Windows Server editions are specifically designed to run server workloads, such as file services, Active Directory, DNS, DHCP, virtualization, and application hosting.

According to the Quentin Docter - CompTIA A+ Complete Study Guide, Windows Server operating systems differ significantly from desktop versions. They support server roles, higher hardware limits, and enterprise features not available in client editions.

The Travis Everett & Andrew Hutz - All-in-One Exam Guide explains that Windows 10 Enterprise and Windows 11 Pro are client operating systems intended for end-user workstations. While they can connect to servers, they are not designed to function as servers themselves.

The Mike Meyers / Mark Soper Lab Manual clarifies that version identifiers like 22H2 represent feature updates for Windows client operating systems, not standalone server products.

Because the question asks which version would most likely be installed on a server, the correct choice is Windows Server 2022, making C the correct answer.

NEW QUESTION # 18

A company requires technicians to verify that files downloaded from the internet have not been modified.

Which of the following should the technicians use for validation?

- A. Hashing
- B. SSL certificate
- C. Plug-in
- D. Extensions

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is A. Hashing, because hashing is specifically designed to verify file integrity and detect whether a file has been altered after its original creation or distribution. A hash is a fixed-length value generated by running a file through a hashing algorithm such as SHA-256 or SHA-1. Even a single-bit change in the file will produce a completely different hash value.

According to the Quentin Docter - CompTIA A+ Complete Study Guide, hashing is commonly used to validate downloaded software by comparing the calculated hash of the downloaded file with the hash published by the vendor. If the two values match, the technician can be confident that the file has not been modified or tampered with.

The Travis Everett & Andrew Hutz - All-in-One Exam Guide emphasizes that hashing ensures integrity, not confidentiality or authentication. SSL certificates secure data in transit, but they do not validate files after download. Plug-ins and extensions provide additional browser functionality but have no role in verifying file integrity.

The Mike Meyers / Mark Soper Lab Manual reinforces that hashing is a standard best practice in secure software deployment and malware prevention. It allows technicians to confirm that files are exactly as the publisher intended.

Because the requirement is to confirm that files have not been modified, hashing is the correct and most reliable method, making A the correct answer.

NEW QUESTION # 19

A company's IT policy requires the protection of sensitive data on employee laptops, especially those taken off premises. Recently, data theft on these devices has become a concern. Which of the following security measures should the company implement to safeguard the laptops?

- A. VPN access
- B. Full disk encryption
- C. Biometric authentication
- D. Intrusion detection software

Answer: B

Explanation:

Full disk encryption protects all data on a laptop by making the contents unreadable without proper authentication, preventing data theft even if the device is lost or stolen.

NEW QUESTION # 20

A company recently transitioned to a cloud-based productivity suite and wants to secure the environment from external threat actors. Which of the following is the most effective method?

- A. Encryption
- B. Multifactor authentication
- C. Strong passwords
- D. Backups

Answer: B

Explanation:

While strong passwords and encryption are important, multifactor authentication (MFA) provides the most effective defense against external threat actors targeting cloud-based services. By requiring a second verification step, such as a push notification, one-time code, or hardware token, MFA ensures that even if credentials are compromised, attackers cannot gain access without the additional factor. This significantly reduces the risk of unauthorized account takeovers in cloud environments.
