CrowdStrike Certified Falcon Hunter Sample Questions (Q48-Q53):

NEW QUESTION # 48

You want to produce a list of all event occurrences along with selected fields such as the full path, time, username etc. Which command would be the appropriate choice?

- A. fields
- B. distinct count
- C. values
- D. table

Answer: D

Explanation:

The table command is used to produce a list of all event occurrences along with selected fields such as the full path, time, username etc. It takes one or more field names as arguments and displays them in a tabular format. The fields command is used to keep or remove fields from search results, not to display them in a list. The distinct_count command is used to count the number of distinct values of a field, not to display them in a list. The values command is used to display a list of unique values of a field within each group, not to display all event occurrences.

NEW QUESTION # 49

The Events Data Dictionary found in the Falcon documentation is useful for writing hunting queries because:

- A. It provides a reference of information about the events found in the Investigate > Event Search page of the Falcon Console
- B. It provides a list of compatible splunk commands used to query event data
- C. It provides pre-defined queries you can customize to meet your specific threat hunting needs
- D. It provides a list of all the detect names and descriptions found in the Falcon Cloud

Answer: A

Explanation:

This is the correct answer for the same reason as above. The Events Data Dictionary provides a reference of information about the events found in the Investigate > Event Search page of the Falcon Console, which is useful for writing hunting queries. It does not provide pre-defined queries, detect names and descriptions, or compatible splunk commands.

NEW QUESTION # 50

While you're reviewing Unresolved Detections in the Host Search page, you notice the User Name column contains "hostnameS ". What does this User Name indicate?

- A. The User Name is not relevant for the dashboard
- B. The User Name is a System User
- C. The Falcon sensor could not determine the User Name
- D. There is no User Name associated with the event

Answer: D

Explanation:

When you see "hostnameS" in the User Name column in the Host Search page, it means that there is no User Name associated with the event. This can happen when the event is related to a system process or service that does not have a user context. It does not mean that the User Name is a System User, that the User Name is not relevant for the dashboard, or that the Falcon sensor could not determine the User Name.

NEW QUESTION # 51

Which of the following is a way to create event searches that run automatically and recur on a schedule that you set?

- A. Scheduled Reports
- B. Scheduled Searches
- C. Workflows
- D. Event Search

Answer: B

Explanation:

Scheduled Searches are a way to create event searches that run automatically and recur on a schedule that you set. You can use

Scheduled Searches to monitor your environment for specific conditions or patterns, generate reports or alerts, or enrich your data with additional fields or tags. Workflows, Event Search, and Scheduled Reports are not ways to create event searches that run automatically and recur on a schedule.

NEW QUESTION # 52

Which of the following is an example of a Falcon threat hunting lead?

- A. A routine threat hunt query showing process executions of single letter filename (e.g., a.exe) from temporary directories
- B. An external report describing a unique 5 character file extension for ransomware encrypted files
- C. Security appliance logs showing potentially bad traffic to an unknown external IP address
- D. A help desk ticket for a user clicking on a link in an email causing their machine to become unresponsive and have high CPU usage

Answer: A

Explanation:

A Falcon threat hunting lead is a piece of information that can be used to initiate or guide a threat hunting activity within the Falcon platform. A routine threat hunt query showing process executions of single letter filename (e.g., a.exe) from temporary directories is an example of a Falcon threat hunting lead, as it can indicate potential malicious activity that can be further investigated using Falcon data and features. Security appliance logs, help desk tickets, and external reports are not examples of Falcon threat hunting leads, as they are not directly related to the Falcon platform or data.
