NEW QUESTION # 215
What occurs when an existing table is extended in ServiceNow?

- A. The table's Access Controls are ignored when determining access to the new table's records and fields.
- B. The new table inherits the functionality built into the parent table.
- C. You must script and configure all required behaviors.
- D. The new table does not inherit any of the fields from the parent table.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed Step-by-Step
Table Extension in ServiceNow:
Extending a table in ServiceNow means creating a child table based on a parent table. The child table inherits the fields, configurations, and functionality of the parent table.
What is Inherited:
Fields: All fields from the parent table are available in the child table.
Functionality: The child table benefits from any business logic or workflows defined for the parent table.
Access Controls: The child table respects the Access Control rules defined for the parent table unless explicitly overridden.
Why Other Options Are Incorrect:
Option B: This is incorrect because the new table does inherit fields from the parent table.
Option C: This is incorrect because you do not need to script or configure behaviors from scratch; they are inherited.
Option D: This is incorrect because Access Controls are not ignored; they still apply and can be extended or modified for the child table.

NEW QUESTION # 217
What occurs when an existing table is extended in ServiceNow?

- A. The new table inherits the functionality built into the parent table
- B. You must script and configure all required behaviors
- C. The new table does not inherit any of the fields from the parent table
- D. The parent table's Access Controls are ignored when determining access to the new table's records and fields

Answer: A

Explanation:
In ServiceNow, extending a table means creating a new table (child class) that inherits properties from an existing table (parent class). This inheritance includes fields, business logic, and other configurations, allowing for efficient reuse and customization.
Key Points:
* Field Inheritance: The child table inherits all fields from the parent table. For example, if you extend the Task table, your new table will include fields like "short_description" and "priority."
* Business Logic Inheritance: The child table also inherits business rules, client scripts, and other logic defined on the parent table, ensuring consistent behavior across related tables.
* Access Controls: Access controls are not ignored; instead, the child table inherits the parent table's access controls. However, you can define additional access controls specific to the child table as needed.
* Customization: While the child table inherits many properties, you can add new fields, scripts, and behaviors to tailor it to specific requirements without affecting the parent table.

NEW QUESTION # 218
Identify the incorrect statement about Delegated Development in ServiceNow.

- A. Administrators can grant the developer access to script fields.
- B. Administrators can specify which application file types the developer can access.
- C. Administrators can grant the developer access to security records.
- D. Administrators can grant non-admin users the ability to develop global applications.

Answer: D

Explanation:
Administrators can grant non-admin users the ability to develop global applications. Delegated Development is for the scoped applications only Reference:
The incorrect statement about Delegated Development in ServiceNow is that administrators can grant non-admin users the ability to develop global applications. Delegated Development allows administrators to grant non-admin users the ability to develop scoped applications, not global applications. Global applications are accessible by all other applications and do not have a namespace prefix. Scoped applications are isolated from other applications and have a unique namespace identifier. Delegated Development provides more granular control over the developer permissions, application resources, and data access. NEW QUESTION # 219
Here is the Business Rule script template:
This type of JavaScript function is known as:

- A. Scoped
- B. Anonymous
- C. Self-invoking
- D. Constructor

Answer: C

Self-invoking. Learn JavaScript!
This type of JavaScript function is known as self-invoking or immediately-invoked function expression (IIFE). It is a function that is defined and executed at the same time, without being assigned to a variable or being called by another function. It is often used to create a local scope for variables and avoid polluting the global namespace.
