CWNP Certified Wireless Analysis Professional Sample Questions (Q61-Q66):

NEW QUESTION # 61

A new firmware has been released for the AP model you use in your WLAN. You have more than 120 of these APs installed.

What is a good reason for applying a firmware update on an enterprise AP?

- A. Enable new security features and patch vulnerabilities
- B. Enable 4x4:4 spatial streams on a 3x3:3 AP
- C. Enable the short guard interval
- D. Disable lower data rates

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 62

You are tasked with describing the various frames used in 802.11 communications.

What frame is used for spectrum management, fast BSS transition and some other actions taken within a BSA?

- A. Action
- B. PS Poll
- C. CTS
- D. BlockAck

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 63

Which one of the following should be the first step when troubleshooting a WLAN issue?

- A. Identify capture locations
- B. Define the problem
- C. Identify probable causes
- D. Perform an initial WLAN scan and see if any obvious issues stand out

Answer: B

Explanation:

The first step in any troubleshooting process is to define the problem. This involves gathering information from various sources, such as users, network administrators, network documentation, and network monitoring tools. Defining the problem helps to narrow down the scope of the issue and identify the symptoms, causes, and effects of the problem. 2 References:

NEW QUESTION # 64

You are performing a multiple adapter channel aggregation capture to troubleshoot a VoIP roaming problem and would like to measure the roaming time from the last VoIP packet sent on the old AP's channel to the first VoIP packet sent on the new AP's channel. Which timing column in the packet view would measure this for you?

- A. Relative
- B. Roaming
- C. Delta
- D. Absolute

Answer: C

Explanation:

Delta is the timing column in the packet view that measures the time difference between two consecutive packets in a capture file. Delta can be used to measure the roaming time from the last VoIP packet sent on the old AP's channel to the first VoIP packet sent on the new AP's channel by selecting these two packets and looking at their delta values. The other timing columns are not suitable for this measurement because they do not show the time difference between two specific packets. Roaming is a column that shows whether a packet belongs to a roaming event or not. Relative is a column that shows the time elapsed since the beginning of the capture file. Absolute is a column that shows the date and time when a packet was captured. 5 References:

NEW QUESTION # 65

When performing protocol analysis, you notice a high number of RTS/CTS frames being transmitted on an HT network. You suspect this may be due to HT protection mechanisms. Where in the Beacon frame would you look to determine which one of the four HT protection modes the AP is operating in?

- A. HT Information Element
- B. Non-HT Present Element
- C. HT Operation Element
- D. HT Protection Element

Answer: A

Explanation:

When performing protocol analysis, you would look at the HT Information Element in the Beacon frame to determine which one of the four HT protection modes the AP is operating in. The HT Information Element contains various subfields that provide information about the HT network configuration and operation. One of these subfields is the HT Protection field, which indicates whether any protection mechanisms are required for mixed-mode operation with non-HT STAs. The four possible values for this field are:

- * No Protection: No protection mechanisms are required.
- * Non-member Protection: RTS/CTS or CTS-to-self protection is required for all HT transmissions.
- * 20 MHz Protection: RTS/CTS or CTS-to-self protection is required for all HT transmissions using a 40 MHz channel.
- * Non-HT Mixed Mode: All HT transmissions must use a non-HT preamble and header .
