NEW QUESTION # 207

A pharmacy is notified that an oral solution has been recalled due to temperature excursions during transport. The first step pharmacy staff should take is to:

- A. contact all prescribers who recently prescribed the product.
- B. contact patients who received a therapeutically equivalent product.
- C. remove any affected product from dispensing stock.
- D. switch patients from the oral solution to oral capsules.

Answer: C

Explanation:

When a drug recall occurs due to temperature excursions (exposure to temperatures outside the manufacturer's recommended range during transport or storage), the pharmacy must immediately remove all affected product from its inventory to prevent dispensing compromised medication.

- * Remove the Affected Product: Quarantine the recalled drug to ensure it is not dispensed.
- * Verify the Recall Details: Confirm the lot number, expiration date, and reason for the recall using FDA or manufacturer recall notices.
- * Document the Recall Action: Log details in the pharmacy's recall records for compliance.
- * Follow Manufacturer or FDA Instructions: Some recalls require returning the product, while others require disposal according to hazardous waste guidelines.
- * Notify Patients and Providers (If Necessary): If the medication has already been dispensed, further action may be needed depending on recall severity.
- * B. Contact patients who received a therapeutically equivalent product. # Incorrect. The recall applies to the specific affected lot, not all similar medications. Pharmacists would first verify which patients received the recalled drug before contacting them.
- * C. Switch patients from the oral solution to oral capsules. # Incorrect. The recall does not automatically require a formulation change. The pharmacy must verify availability of unaffected stock or alternative treatments before making substitutions.
- * D. Contact all prescribers who recently prescribed the product. # Incorrect. While prescribers may need notification if the recall affects patient treatment, the first step is ensuring the recalled product is removed from stock to prevent further dispensing.
- * PTCB PTCE Exam Content Outline - Medication Safety and Recall Procedures.
- * FDA Drug Recall Guidelines (www.fda.gov).
- * USP <1079> Good Storage and Distribution Practices for Pharmaceuticals.
- * National Association of Boards of Pharmacy (NABP) Recall Compliance Standards.
- * Manufacturer Recall Notices (Example: Pfizer, Eli Lilly, etc.).
- * Mosby's Pharmacy Technician: Principles and Practice - Recall Classifications and Actions.
