NEW QUESTION # 416
Which of the following is a true statement regarding environmental, social, and governance (ESG) and corporate social responsibility (CSR)?

- A. Sustainability disclosure is evolving around the world.
- B. Sustainability reporting focuses solely on the environmental and social performance of an organization's activities.
- C. Organizations with ESG programs have lower performance due to the necessity to focus on sustainability as well.
- D. Having a CSR program also means decreased revenue and increased costs.

Answer: A

Explanation:
ESG and CSR are both related to how a company manages its impact on society and the environment, but they are not the same. CSR is a voluntary business model that reflects a company's commitment to positive social and environmental outcomes. ESG is a set of criteria that investors use to measure and evaluate a company's sustainability practices and performance2. Sustainability disclosure is the process of reporting on the ESG and CSR aspects of a company's activities to the stakeholders, such as the board, senior management, regulators, customers, and the public3. Sustainability disclosure is evolving around the world, as more companies adopt ESG and CSR frameworks and standards, and more stakeholders demand greater transparency and accountability on sustainability issues4.

NEW QUESTION # 417
Which of the following would be included in quality assurance and improvement program (QAIP) reporting?

- A. Annual summaries of consulting and audit engagements.
- B. Descriptions of standardized work practices.
- C. Conformance of individual engagements with the Standards,
- D. Outcomes of internal audit key performance indicators.

Answer: C

Explanation:
In the quality assurance and improvement program (QAIP) reporting, the inclusion of conformance of individual engagements with the Standards is essential. This aspect of the QAIP ensures that all audit activities adhere to the International Standards for the Professional Practice of Internal Auditing, thereby maintaining the integrity and effectiveness of the audit function. Reporting on conformance highlights the audit activity's alignment with globally recognized standards and practices, which is a critical component of quality assurance in internal auditing.References: IIA's International Standards for the Professional Practice of Internal Auditing on Quality Assurance and Improvement Programs.

NEW QUESTION # 418
Which of the following examples best describes how an internal auditor should behave while listening to an engagement client talk about human resource process problems?
