Cisco Certified Support Technician (CCST) IT Support Sample Questions (Q43-Q48):

NEW QUESTION # 43

What does it typically indicate if the power LED on a desktop computer is blinking intermittently?

- A. The computer is in sleep or standby mode
- B. The power supply unit is failing
- C. The computer is currently processing tasks
- D. The motherboard is overheating

Answer: A

Explanation:

Correct Answer: A. The computer is in sleep or standby mode A blinking power LED on a desktop computer often signals that the computer is in sleep or standby mode, reducing power usage while not in active use.

Option B is incorrect because a failing PSU typically causes the computer to shut down unexpectedly or not start at all, rather than causing the power LED to blink intermittently.

Option C is incorrect because overheating issues usually trigger other indicators, such as system shutdowns, error messages, or a constant on, not blinking, warning lights.

Option D is incorrect because processing tasks do not affect the power LED, which typically remains steady during normal operations.

NEW QUESTION # 44

A user's smartphone suddenly stops charging, and the user suspects a problem with the power cable.

Which characteristic of the mobile power cable should the IT support technician instruct the user to check first?

- A. The wattage rating of the power adapter
- B. The physical condition of the cable
- C. The color of the cable insulation
- D. The length of the cable

Answer: B

Explanation:

Correct Answer. B. The physical condition of the cable The physical condition of the cable is the most likely cause of charging issues, as wear and tear can lead to fraying, breaks, or loose connections. Checking for visible damage or bends in the cable that could break internal wiring is a crucial first step in troubleshooting.

Option A is incorrect because the wattage rating of the adapter is unrelated to a sudden stop in charging unless the adapter has failed entirely.

Option C is incorrect because the color of the cable insulation is purely aesthetic and has no bearing on functionality.

Option D is incorrect because while extremely long cables can sometimes reduce charging efficiency due to voltage drop, they would not cause charging to suddenly stop unless damaged.

NEW QUESTION # 45

A technician receives a report that a user's wired mouse is not moving the cursor despite being connected.

What is the first thing the technician should check?

- A. Replace the mouse with a wireless model
- B. Update the mouse drivers
- C. Ensure the mouse cable is securely connected to the USB port
- D. Change the computer's display settings

Answer: C

Explanation:

Correct Answer. B. Ensure the mouse cable is securely connected to the USB port The most common and easiest issue to fix with wired peripherals like a mouse is to check if the connection to the computer is secure. A loose or partially connected cable can prevent the mouse from functioning properly.

Option A is incorrect. Replacing a wired mouse with a wireless one is unnecessary without first checking simpler issues.

Option C is incorrect. Updating drivers is a potential solution but only necessary if there are signs of device recognition without proper functionality.

Option D is incorrect. Display settings do not affect the functionality of a mouse.

NEW QUESTION # 46

During a network troubleshooting session, a technician needs to check if a Windows device is receiving its IP address from a DHCP server.

Which ipconfig option should the technician recommend the user run to quickly verify this?

- A. ipconfig /all
- B. ipconfig /displaydns
- C. ipconfig
- D. ipconfig /showclassid

Answer: A

Explanation:

Correct Answer. B. ipconfig /all The ipconfig /all command is the most comprehensive option for viewing network configuration details, including whether an IP address is obtained from a DHCP server. It shows each network adapter's DHCP status, making it ideal for verifying DHCP-based IP address allocation.

Option A is incorrect because running ipconfig without any options only displays basic IP address information, not DHCP-specific details.

Option C is incorrect because ipconfig /displaydns shows the contents of the DNS resolver cache and does not provide information about DHCP.

Option D is incorrect because ipconfig /showclassid displays the DHCP class ID for all adapters, which does not directly confirm DHCP IP allocation.

NEW QUESTION # 47

A user is unable to install a new app because their iPhone is running an outdated version of iOS that is not supported by the app.

What should they do?

- A. Update the iOS to the latest version supported by their device
- B. Jailbreak the iPhone to install the app
- C. Delete unused apps to make space for the new app
- D. Downgrade the app to a version compatible with their current iOS

Answer: A

Explanation:

Correct Answer. B. Update the iOS to the latest version supported by their device Updating the iOS to the latest version that their device supports can enable compatibility with newer apps and improve overall security and functionality.

Option A is incorrect because jailbreaking can void warranties and lead to security vulnerabilities.

Option C is incorrect because users typically cannot downgrade apps to earlier versions directly from the App Store.

Option D is incorrect because the issue described is related to software compatibility, not storage capacity.
